One Boom To Stay In Bolinas

Standard Oil crews and volunteers were to begin today removing two of three booms across the mouth of the Bolinas Lagoon, one of them temporarily.

A spokesman for the oil company said one log boom will remain "for an indefinite period" to insure any stray oil still remaining from the Jan. 18 collision of two Standard Oil tankers will not find its way into the lagoon.

One of the booms to be removed is a partially-completed log barrier, which volunteers installed last week because they felt the two other barriers installed by the oil company did not provide adequate protection.

The other boom, constructed of a plastic called sea foam, will be taken away temporarily, then re-installed later this week as a precautionary measure, said the spokesman.

A representative of the oil company said the booms will be hauled onto the beach with small cranes, separated and lifted onto trucks which will haul them away.

He said the materials and lumber used to form the barriers will be donated to the Bolinas-Stinson School District.

Supt. Lester M. Horning said the materials will probably be used to build recreational equipment for the students, such as a handball back stop.

Apollo Speeds To Moon Despite Scare On Docking

Astronauts Can't Find Flaw, Landing In Doubt

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The Apollo 14 astronauts, speeding accurately toward the moon, checked their malfunctioning docking mechanism by hand today but failed to find the trouble which could scrub their $400 million lunar landing mission.

Alan B. Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell examined the device for an hour before going to sleep after a busy 15½ hours of success and frustration that started with a flawless launch from Cape Kennedy.

The routine linkup of the command skip Kitty Hawk and the lunar lander Antares turned into a tense hour and 44 minute struggle Sunday night to prevent the failure of America's second straight moon mission.

But the successful locking of the two vessels by an unorthodox method left the risk the mechanism would fail again after the lunar module lifts off from the Fra Mauro section of the moon Saturday.

Ground experts viewed television films of the device and worked with models to decide if Shepard, 47, America's first man in space, and rookie astronaut Mitchell, 40, would be allowed to spend 33½ hours on the lunar surface.

A space agency spokesman said a decision wasn't being rushed but probably will be made sometime before a braking maneuver Thursday to put Apollo 14 into moon orbit.

The astronauts never were in danger and even if the moon landing is cancelled, officials said they could still loop the moon to take pictures and perform some scientific observations.

The docking mechansim failed to work five times while Apollo 14 sped through 20,000 miles of space. But on the sixth try the space pilots gave an extra long and hard shove with their steering rockets and linked the two craft with the unorthodox technique.

Roosa, 37, also a rookie spaceman, crawled into the hatch a few hours later and removed the linkup device — an operation which normally would have occurred on Wednesday.

Roosa inspected the inside of the coupling with his hands and a flashlight and reported "some impressions that are rough to touch, probably scratched in the surface of the drogue for about a quarter of an inch deep."

"It appears the probe hit the drogue dead center every time we tried to dock," Roosa said, "but it just didn't catch."

The astronauts then inspected the mechanism and triggered it several times by hand. It worked every time — and thus failed to show what went wrong.

The docking mechansim, which never before has failed in flight, uses a pointed "probe" on the command module to nudge into a cone-shaped drogue on the lunar lander.

With the probe in place, three "capture latches" are supposed to catch the lander and hold the two vessels together until a ring of 12 latches locks.

But for Apollo 14, the three capture latches didn't work.

So, on the sixth docking try, Roosa drove the command ship, with probe extended, into the lander's receptacle for proper alignment. Instead of using the capture latches to hold the spacecraft together, Roosa fired control jets to keep the craft snug until the locking latches engaged.

At Mission Control in Houston, engineers took a "wait and see" attitude while they tried to figure what went wrong.

After their unscheduled study of the faulty part and an exchange of information with the ground, the astronauts asked if they could go to sleep 20 minutes early. They settled down at 10:45 a.m. PST for a scheduled 10-hour rest period.

Although the space pilots were hounded by some problems, their course was so true that an early morning correction was canceled.

Shepard, America's pioneer astronaut, and rookies Roosa and Mitchell blasted off at 1:03 p.m. PST Sunday after black storm clouds over Cape Kennedy forced a 40-minute delay. The next difficulty was the docking, an event handled routinely on six previous Apollo missions.

"We have a couple of days to work this out," said Sigrud A. Sjoburg, director of flight operations. "I don't want to speculate now on when any decision (about the lunar landing) will be made. We will have to convince ourselves in some fashion that the thing is indeed satisfactory for additional dockings."

Bob Gordon, a Space Agency spokesman, said a final decision must be made on whether to scrub the moon landing sometime before the maneuver Thursday that puts Apollo 14 into orbit around the moon. Space agency officials said they weren't rushing.

Roosa clambered into the tunnel connecting the Kitty Hawk and the Antares just after 1 a.m. PST today. After 65 minutes of probing, twisting, jiggling and pushing, he told ground controllers he could not find what caused the docking problem.

"We've cycled it four or five times and it just goes in so easily," Roosa said.

"What you're trying to tell me is that you haven't found what's caused the problems," mission control said.

"That's basically it," Roosa replied.

Although the latches worked manually when Roosa tried them, there was no guarantee the docking problem would not recur at the critical period when the astronauts try to link up again for the return flight to earth Sunday. Ground experts weighted the danger of a repeat malfunction against the importance of the mission's success.

Apollo 13, which also had the Fra Mauro hills as its destination, was crippled by an oxygen tank explosion en route to the moon and its three astronauts had to cancel their mission and hobble home.

Although Roosa could not pinpoint the problem with the lunar lander latches, he discov-

Hijackers Threaten Explosion

LAHORE, West Pakistan (UPI)—Thirty passengers and crewmen of a hijacked Indian Airlines plane were returned Monday to India, but the two hijackers remained inside the aircraft threatening to blow it up with hand grenades.

The hijackers, members of the Kashmir Liberation Front, said they will destroy the Fokker Friendship plane parked at Lahore Airport unless the government of India releases 36 imprisoned members of the front. The Pakistani government has granted the hijackers political asylum.

(In New Delhi, the Indian government sent a note to the Pakistan high commissioner, (ambassador) that indicated rejection of the hijackers' demand and expressing surprise that they had received asylum.

Indian Airlines sent a jet-prop Viscount early Monday to pick up the four stranded crew members and 26 passengers of the hijacked flight, but Pakistan officials sent them back to India later by bus. They

259-Acre Brazil Ranch Up For Sale

The 259-acre Brazil Ranch, fronting Tomales Bay just north of Tom's Point, is up for sale.

Bank of America trust department in Santa Rosa, named as executor of the estate of the late Antone J. Brazil, announced that it is taking bids on the ranch in its "as is" condition. Buildings on the ranch include a five-room house, detached garage, dairy barn and implement shed.

Rancher Brazil died about two years ago.

Paul Proffer, property management officer for the bank, said there is no cutoff date for bids. "We'll take the first acceptable offer."

He said the minimum legal limit is 90 per cent of what the inheritance tax appraisers value the property. Proffer said he does not know what the minimum price would be until an inheritance tax appraisal is made.

Records in the Marin County assessor's office indicate that the market value of the property is about $200,000. The 1970-71 taxes on the property came to $4,058.

Fire Guts Home, Boy, Sister Flee

Fire raced through a two-story brown shingle house on Throckmorton Ridge above Mill Valley this morning, completely destroying the building and sending two occupants fleeing.

Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom estimated the loss at $25,000 for the building and contents and another $800 for a jeep parked outside and largely destroyed.

Two units from the Marin County Fire Department and one each from Mill Valley, Tamalpais Valley and Sausalito responded to the blaze at 135 Mountain Lane about 7:40 a.m.

Firemen said flames were shooting through the roof when they arrived.

Owner H. A. (Arnie) Weaver said his son, Danny, was asleep when the fire broke out in the kitchen. Danny awakened his sleeping sister, Kristen, 10, and both fled to a neighbor's house.

Weaver, a carpenter, said he had taken his wife, Carol, to the Mill Valley bus station and returned to find firemen fighting the blaze.

He was unable to estimate the value of the house and its contents.

The fire singed overhanging pine branches but endangered no other structure, firemen said. Only a part of the house's outer walls and chimney remained.

Also destroyed were Seaver's carpenter tools and the uniforms of a Little League baseball team he manages.

Weaver said his family would stay with relatives in Terra Linda.

Marin's Third Auto Death

A 23-year-old San Anselmo woman was fatally injured yesterday when the small foreign car in which she was riding was struck broadside by another auto at a San Rafael intersection

Officers said today Carolyn Kay Wurche of 242 The Alameda was ejected from her husband's Volkswagen by the impact of the collision at Heatherton and Fourth streets. The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m.

It was the third Marin County auto fatality this year, the same as at this date last year.

Mrs. Wurche was traveling south on Heatherton in the auto driven by her husband, Michael Rainer Wurche, 27, when a vehicle driven by Emma Antonia Hansen of 1582 South Novato Boulevard, Novato, crashed into the Wurche vehicle, officers said.

The entire right side of the Wurche auto was crumpled and the door sprung.

Violence In Los Angeles Brings Death To One, 45 Are Injured

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—One man was shot and killed and at least 45 other persons were wounded or injured in violent skirmishes Sunday between sheriff's deputies and Mexican-American youths following a window-breaking, looting rampage in a business area in the east Los Angeles barrio.

A 10-square-mile area was declared in a state of emergency. The county Board of Supervisors put a 6:20 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew into effect.

The violence erupted following a peaceful demonstration by 5,000 Chicanos at Belvedere Park to protest alleged police brutality against Mexican-Americans.

A sheriff's spokesman said at least 50 persons were arrested on charges ranging from failure to disperse to assault on an officer.

The windows of at least 60 businesses were smashed and several stores were looted.

Nine buildings including a bank and an automobile dealership were set ablaze by firebombs. A liquor store and bail bonds building were gutted while damage to Pan American National Bank was estimated at $15,000.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said the shooting death resulted when six deputies near the bank were confronted by about 500 to 600 demonstrators who hurled missiles and advanced on the officers. Pitchess said the deputies fired warning shots over the heads of the crowd with shotguns and also fired shots into the ground.

The sheriff said the victim, who was not immediately identified, and the wounding of the other persons occurred at this time although the circumstances surrounding the incident had not yet been determined.

Twenty-three civilians suffered injuries, 14 of them wounded by gunfire. Twelve deputies suffered minor injuries and 12 firemen were treated for smoke inhalation after battling a total of 35 fires in the area, most of them in trash bins.

Total structural damage was estimated at $190,000.

Shortly after darkness came to the area, Pitchess said deputies were in control of the situation. He said 500 officers were used in the area at the peak of the violence.

"There's absolutely no provocation for this degree of violence," the sheriff added.

The rally, which ended late in the afternoon, climated marches which began Thursday. Contingents of 75 to 100 participants moved toward the park from Venice, San Fernando Valley, Monterey Park, Whittier, Long Beach, San Pedro, Ontario and Pomona Valley.

The marches and rally were sponsored by the Chicano Moratorium Committee which said the rally was a "hearing" in which the community was told of "the many cases of police brutality and other problems with the police." There were no arrests during the rally.

Sleepy Driver Is Injured

John Daniel Halligan, 23, of San Rafael was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital for multiple face cuts sustained in an auto accident today in San Rafael.

Halligan, of 2413 Fifth Avenue, was southbound at 12:10 a.m. on Lincoln Avenue when he struck a parked car at Prospect Avenue, police reported.

Officers said Halligan told them he fell asleep.

GIs Hard Hit In Chu Lai Battle

SAIGON (UPI) —American forces took their heaviest losses in a Vietnam ground action in more than six months early today in a Communist assault on an Army position on the northern coast, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

Seven men of the 198th Brigade of the Americal Division were killed and seven wounded in the fighting about four miles west of division headquarters at Chu Lai, 335 miles north-northeast of Saigon, the spokesmen said.

One U.S. serviceman was killed and 18 wounded in Communist shelling attacks elsewhere in South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said. The six shellings were the most since Sept. 13, records showed, and included a rocket attack on the big American airbase at Da Nang.

Losses in the 50-minute predawn battle west of Chu Lai were the heaviest taken by an American unit in the war zone since last July 22 when 12 GIs were killed and 31 wounded in fighting around the subsequently abandoned Ripcord combat base in the northern quarter, military spokesmen said.

The Communists fired a barrage of at least 50 rounds of 82mm mortar into the U.S. position, then attacked on the ground with heavy small arms and automatic weapons fire, the spokesmen said. Communist losses could not be determined.

American military spokesmen meanwhile announced plans to give the South Vietnamese air force deadly AC119 shadow gunships as part of the Vietnamization program.

Air force officials said American advisers began training Vietnamese airmen in AC119 fixed-wing gunships at the Phan Rang airbase 165 miles northeast of Saigon. The gunships will be turned over to the Vietnamese later this year.

American officials in Washington and Saigon declined comment today on reports South Vietnamese troops backed by U.S. air power would move into Laos to cut the Communists' vital supply line to their men fighting in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

The reports were printed so widely that the Viet Cong radio quoted them Sunday and vowed the Communists would fight back with "appropriate blows." It said the reports showed the South Vietnamese "after having invaded and destroyed the Cambodian countryside, now are going to invade and slay the Laotian peoples."

In Saigon, U.S. military officials asked about the Viet Cong radio broadcast said only "We have a standing policy not to comment on Communist radio broadcasts."

Israelis, Arabs Trade Blows But Truce Holds

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Helicopter-borne Israeli commandos struck twice into Lebanon during the night and attacked Arab guerrilla hideouts, Israeli spokesman reported in Tel Aviv. Guerrillas struck twice in the occupied Gaza Strip, wounding 61 Arabs in an attack on a post office and attacking an Israeli truck.

The cease-fire still held along the Suez Canal and Jordanian frontier but Syria joined Egypt in calling up reserves as four Arab nations went on a full war footing. With the cease-fire expiring on Friday, Egypt once more emphasized its hard line negotiating stand.

The target of the Israeli attacks were the town of El Khiyam, four miles inside Lebanon, and the nearby village of Qila (also spelled Kfar Kela), due north of the Sea of Galilee and about 25 miles inland from the coast. It was the first Israeli strike into Lebanon since a raid Jan. 15 against a guerrilla frogman base on the coast.

Israel said the commandos killed at least three guerrillas but suffered one killed and three wounded as they blew up three houses. Lebanon reported heavy fighting during the attack and a duel between Lebanese soldiers and an Israeli helicopter. A Lebanese woman said she was robbed of $3,000.

An Israeli military spokesman said the raids Sunday night and early today were in retaliation for 10 raids against Israeli border villages by Palestinian guerrillas based in Lebanon. The spokesman said more guerrillas may have been trapped and killed inside one of the demolished houses.

Villagers told UPI by telephone the raid lasted for and a half hours and that the guerrillas suffered one man wounded. El Khiyam, a town of 14,000, apparently was not hit directly but a resident said the Israelis searched Al Fatah headquarters and that later Lebanese artillery fired at the Israelis.

In the Gaza Strip, a terrorist entered the crowded main post office carrying an automobile tire and set it down in a corner near Arabs lined up to collect their Israeli pay checks from the postal bank. The tire began emitting smoke and then exploded, wounding 61 Arabs, five seriously.

A few minutes later an unknown assailant threw a grenade at an Israeli truck a half mile from the postoffice. The explosion inflicted neither damage nor casualties.

City Sreets To Get Bike Routes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—So many people here are abandoning their automobiles to commute on bicycles that the city plans to designate certain streets as bike routes.

The trial plan is intended "both to encourage bike commuters and to warn motorists to drive with extra caution," said Edward McDevitt, superintendent of parks.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Move On Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign aid officials said today they have stopped financing 25 popular prescription drugs for export to needy nations because the drugs are too expensive and work no better than cheaper medicines.

At the same time, the U.S. surgeon general reported he is having trouble evaluating drugs and curtailing the use of high-priced pills in this country because there is no "carefully planned national policy on health."

But Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld said extensive steps are being taken to curb the use of costly medicines at federal facilities and to make sure the public gets "good drugs at reasonable prices."

In separate testimony prepared for a Senate monopoly subcommittee, officials of the Agency for International Development (AID) and the U.S. Public Health service said their belt-tightening policies were in response to sharp criticism of government drug procurement by the same subcommittee last summer.

Children Suffer

WASHINGTON (UPI) Children in poor neighborhoods often suffer because their school teachers are badly trained and would rather be teaching somewhere else, the U.S. Office of Education said today.

About 350,000 of the nation's 2 million public school teachers are working in schools populated by poor children, the report said.

"The majority of these teachers are young, inexperienced and often poorly prepared for the culture shock of entering a classroom of poor children," the third annual Report on Education Professions said.

"Approximately 40 per cent would prefer to be in a school other than the one in which they are teaching; more than 20 per cent prefer teaching white pupils rather than minority group students," it said.

The report was distributed to members of congressional appropriations committees.

Obote Appeal

ADDIS ABA (UPI)—Ousted Uganda President Milton Obote flew to Ethiopia today for a one-hour conference with Emperor Haile Selassie, then left for Dar es Salaam.

The swing was part of Obote's campaign to convince African nations not to recognize the military regime of Maj. Gen. Ibi Amin, which seized power from him in Kampala one week ago.

The Ethiopian news agency said Obote briefed Selassie "on the latest developments in Uganda."

During the visit, Ethiopia Radio, in its reports, referred to Obote as president of Uganda.

Neither Obote nor Ethiopian Foreign Minister Ketema Yifru would talk to newsmen.

Obote early today took off from Tanzania, where he was granted political asylum after the coup in Kampala.

Cold Moves In

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The temperature in Hell, Mich., was 9 below zero early today. It was colder than that in many places around the country.

Readings between 10 and 20 below were commonplace around the Upper Midwest. Frost or freeze warnings were in effect in Louisiana and Mississippi, a hard freeze was expected in Northern Georgia and cold wave warnings were in effect for North Carolina and northwest Florida.

Detroit and Toledo, Ohio, established records for Feb. 1, with respective readings of 4 below and 5 below at 2 a.m. The temperature still was falling. A resident of Apollo, Pa., pop. 2,400, said early today it was "just plain zero" there.

Travelers warnings were in effect in parts of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota as northwesterly winds gusted to 40 miles an hour, whipping snow from last week's two storms.

The early morning reading of 2 below in Minneapolis, combined with biting winds, sent the wind chill factor to 43 below zero.

Muskie's View

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said Sunday the United States must not only diminish its military activity in Cambodia but in Laos and Vietnam as well.

The Maine Democrat said the U.S. must commit itself "grimly to the complete withdrawal of our forces from Indochina by a fixed and definite date."

Speaking at a fund raising rally for defeated Senate candidate Joseph D. Duffey, Muskie was particularly critical of the Nixon administration's actions in Cambodia.

"We believed this administration in June when it told us it would fly no combat support missions inside Cambodia," he said. "What are we to believe in January when the Secretary of Defense dismissed this pledge as 'semantics.' "

Flood Victims

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI)—Fresh flood waters poured into Portuguese East Africa's cyclone-stricken lowlands today, hampering rescue efforts for thousands of flood victims already marooned for four days.

Africans overcame their fear of helicopters and planes to plead for food from Portuguese army craft crisscrossing the flooded district. The central government said 135,000 persons lived in the worst-affected area around Quelimane, the administrative capital of the central Zambesia province. Only 24,000 have been rescued, but Zambesia Gov. Lt. Col. David Ferreira declined to estimate the death toll.

Antismut List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Starting today, the Post Office —if requested —will put your name on an anti-smut list designed to give you blanket protection against "sexually oriented" mail.

The option is part of a new law designed to keep unwanted pornographic ads out of the mailboxes. It offers broader protection than a 1968 law under which a citizen could object to a specific mailer, but not to all types of mail he regarded as offensive.

The law says a sex-oriented ad is:

"Any advertisement that depicts, in actual or simulated form, or explicity describes, in a predominantly sexual context, human genitalia, any act of natural or unnatural sexual intercourse, any act of sadism or masochism or any other erotic subject directly related to the foregoing."

Any person wanting his name on the list must go to the Post Office and fill out a form which includes his name and address.

Bunker Confers

SAIGON (UPI) — Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. Ambassador to South Vietnam, flew to the United States and Paris today for "routine consultations" with President Nixon and U. S. Paris peace talks negotiator David K. E. Bruce.

"These are regularly scheduled consultations which he makes periodically," U.S. officials said. Bunker was scheduled to fly direct to Washington where he will remain for about one week. He was to stop in Paris en route back to Vietnam.

He was expected to return to Saigon in mid-February. Bunker last was in the United States in November.

He first was sentenced to San Quentin in 1964 from Shasta County for assault with a deadly weapon. Paroled in April 1968, he was returned to prison six months later for parole violation.

Funeral arrangements were to be made by his family from the Ukiah area.

Alternative Offered To Concrete Creek

Recognizing Mill Valley's dislike of concrete creek channels, City Engineer Stanley M. Bala has suggested a plan that would leave Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio in its natural state and still prevent flooding.

Under Bala's proposal, an enclosed culvert would be constructed under Miller Avenue from Millwood Street to Reed Street. Water rising past a certain point in the creek would go into the culvert and flow down Miller Avenue, bypassing the part of the creek most prone to flooding.

The plan also involves cleaning and straightening the bypassed portion of the creek to allow it to convey as much water as possible, but otherwise leaving it natural.

Water from the Miller Avenue culvert would rejoin the creek at Reed Street and from that point to Richardson Bay. Bala proposes a dirt channel with sloping sides. This channel, he said, could be planted or lined with rocks to give it a natural appearance.

The final phase of the plan envisions buying and razing homes fronting on Plymouth Street between Valley Circle and Surrey Street. A creekside park, as suggested in the city's 701 plan, would replace the houses.

Bala's plan, which he emphasized was prepared on his own time, and not in his capacity as city engineer, would achieve flood control without resorting to a concrete channel as proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers. The corps proposal was rejected by the city in 1967.

Creek maintenance also would be simplified under his proposal, Bala said. When the city wished to clean the creek it could divert the entire flow into the bypass and run a small bulldozer down the stream bed, clearing away obstructions and debris.

Bala suggested Mayor George E. Wickham appoint a committee to study not only his plan but also other plans it wishes and then work with the Corps of Engineers to come up with a scheme to maintain aesthetics while stopping floods.

While Bala has prepared no cost estimate on the project, he said his experience indicates the bypass plan would cost about the same or slightly less than the conventional concrete channel proposed by the Corps of Engineers. Cost of that project was pegged at $5,170,000.

The Miller Avenue bypass could cost more to build, Bala said, but savings would result in using city-owned right-of-way on Miller Avenue and Reed Street. Right-of-way costs for the 1967 plan were put at $1,250,000.

"I haven't checked the feasibility of this plan," Bala said, "because that would be up to the mayor's committee and the corps. I just think it's a good plan and should be considered."

Bala refused to take full credit for the idea, saying former Mill Valley Planning Director Harvey M. Bragdon helped formulate the plan. He estimated it would take five to seven years to begin construction if the plan is approved.

Mondale Favors Opium Trade Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., says he will introduce legislation designed to cut off U.S. foreign aid to any country which refuses to cut back its opium production.

"Opium is grown and made into heroin in a chain of corruption that links countries that are friends and allies," Mondale said in a statement. "For example, an estimated 80 per cent of the heroin entering America comes from opium grown in Turkey, a NATO ally and recipient of $5.5 billion in U.S. aid since 1946."

East Germans Call Off Berlin's Semiblockade

BERLIN (UPI) —West German customs police reported today the East Germans apparently had ended their semiblockade of Berlin highway traffic.

They said after a "catastrophic" night at border checkpoints the East German border guards began about 9 a.m. to process traffic normally.

Until then trucks were waiting as long as 18 hours for clearance and passenger automobiles 12 hours.

Early today there was a line of trucks four and one-half miles long at the East German Marienborn checkpoint.

The East Germans began their slowdown at 8 a.m. Wednesday to protest visits here of West German President Gustav Heinemann and Chancellor Willy Brandt and a meeting of the West German Free Democratic Party Friday and Saturday.

New Year's Queen Reigns In Chinatown

LINDA SHEN
Miss Chinatown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The year of the Boar's "Miss Chinatown U.S.A." is Linda Shen, 18, an eye-filling freshman from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Miss Shen, who will preside over the Chinese New Year's celebration in San Francisco, has black hair, a pixie-like smile, measures 34-25-36, wears a turquoise dress slit down both sides, stands five feet, five inches, has brown eyes and weighs 110 pounds.

She was born in Taiwan and was introduced Sunday as the celebration ruler. Her father is a Ph.D. and a meteorologist.

Her court, made up of runnerups, consists of Sharrieann Wong, 17, of Sacramento, first runner up; Lois Young, 21, of Hawaii, second runner up; Sharon Fong, 20, of San Francisco, third runner up; and Jeannie Lam, 23, of San Francisco, fourth runner up.

The largest event in the week-long celebration will be next Saturday's parade for which Justice Stanley Most of the California Supreme Court has been named grand marshal.

Lansing Kwok, Chinese Chamber of Commerce president, said Mosk was honored because as a trial judge in 1950 he ruled that restrictive clauses preventing the sale of real property to non-Caucasians were unconstitutional.

The judge also worked with the office of the U.S. attorney general to liberalize the U.S. immigration and nationality act, Kwok noted.

Although the parade is days away, fire crackers already are popping on Grant Avenue and the block-long golden dragon is being made ready. Firecrackers are illegal in San Francisco, but they have been sounding off for a century at Chinese New Year's.

Avalanche Deaths

TREMP, Spain (UPI)—Two persons were missing and presumed dead and four others injured Sunday when an avalanche swept across a ski run in the Pyrenees, police said. All victims were Spaniards.

Balloon Dips, Hits Automobile

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—A hit-and-run balloon was blamed Sunday for a balloon-automobile crash near here—perhaps the first in history.

Two participants in the St. Paul Winter Carnival balloon race were sailing along at about 50 feet, when a strong downdraft sent the balloon skidding onto the ice of White Bear Lake.

The gondola skidded across the ice and smashed into the car of a carnival official.

The two balloonists were thrown out, but received only minor injuries.

Times Puts Finger On Connally

NEW YORK (UPI)—John B. Connally Jr., President Nixon's nominee for secretary of the Treasury, was paid at least $225,000 by a private foundation with large oil and gas holdings while he was governor of Texas, The New York Times reported today.

The Times said that public records filed by the Sid W. Richardson Foundation with the Internal Revenue Service listed a debt to Connally of $225,000 in 1966 which the foundation paid at a rate of $75,000 a year before Connally left the governorship in 1966 and joined a Houston law firm.

The Texas Constitution prohibits the governor from receiving any "salary, reward or compensation or the promise thereof from any person or corporation for any service rendered or performed during the time he is governor."

Connally could not be reached for comment but had been quoted in Texas newspapers while he was governor as denying he had performed any such service or received any compensation while in office.

Perry R. Bass, a director und chief spokesman for the foundation and a former business partner of Connally's, told the Times the money was "executors' fees." He said he and Connally were coexecutors of the $105 million estate of Sid W. Richardson, a Fort Worth oil millionaire who died in 1969, the Times said.

President's Seashore Budget: $2.2 Million

A $2,259,000 appropriation for Point Reyes Seashore, included in President Nixon's budget request to congress, would bring total appropriation to the $57.5 million needed for purchase of all 53,000 acres of the seashore.

About 29,000 acres have been purchased, leaving 24,000 acres still to be bought by the National Park Service.

President Nixon asked Congress to appropriate $9.8 million for California park projects for the coming fiscal year, including the Point Reyes Seashore Fund.

The president's spending proposal for next fiscal year also included the following projects:

Corte Madera Creek — $800,000 to complete phase three of the Corte Madera flood control project, which would bring the flood control channel improvement to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Sonoma Creek — $220,000 for flood control improvement of Sonoma Creek, through the town of Sonoma, Boyes Springs and Shellville.

Bolinas — $15,000 for study of erosion along the Bolinas Mesa and $10,000 to study the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon so that navigation can be improved.

Novato — $20,000 to study flood control improvements along Novato Creeek and tributaries.

Richardson Bay — $25,000 for flood control along Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio in the Mill Valley area.

Firemen Save Man In Novato Blaze

Novato firemen rescued a 58-year-old man from his smoke-filled home today after he had collapsed from smoke inhalation.

Rescued was Oliver Alexander Wallace, who was found lying between the hallway and living room. His wife had escaped through a front window.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder said the fire at the Wallace home reported at 12:49 a.m. by a neighbor, caused damage.. estimated at $1,000 to the building and $4,000 to contents.

Mrs. Wallace, sleeping in the front bedroom, woke and tried to get out through the hallway, but driven away by smoke and heat, she climbed out through a front window.

Wallace, who had been asleep in a back bedroom, was found lying between the hallway and living room, partially behind a television set. He was revived with a resuscitator, and taken to Novato General Hospital where he was reported in good condition, suffering from smoke inhalation.

The fire, believed caused by a cigar butt, was limited to a living room chair, but there was extensive heat and smoke damage, the chief said.

crossed the frontier into India at the Gandasinghwala checkpoint Monday afternoon.

The hijackers, Hashim Qureshi, 20, and Sved Mohammed Ashraf, 21, forced the pilot of the plane to fly to Lahore Saturday, interrupting what was to have been a flight from Srinagar to Jammu in disputed Kashmir.

Kashmir is administered by India, but much of it is claimed by Pakistan. The two countries fought a brief war over it in 1965. The Kashmir Liberation Front, which opposes the Indian presence, was outlawed recently and many of its leaders arrested.

Pakistanis have been treating the two hijackers as heroes, crowding around the plane and pressing through police cordons to offer flowers, candy and food to Qureshi and Ashraf.

ered six scratches on the docking mechanisms, ranging in length from 3-4 of an inch to two inches.

"They are very definite scratches, very rough to the touch," he said.

The astronauts telecast their jiggling of the mechanisms back to Houston, where the ground experts tried unsuccessfully to spot the reason for the malfunction.

The trouble was the astronauts were trying to dock the command module with the lunar lander the way they had practiced it — the way all the other flights had docked.

Once they figured out it should be done just the opposite way, the docking succeeded.

But it took five unsuccessful attempts before they figured it out.

At 4:13 PST Sunday, the command service module Kitty Hawk moved in to dock with the lunar module Antares. This first attempt came as the capsules were 6,418 miles from Earth. They tried to dock four minutes later. It did not work.

At 7:18 p.m. the astronauts tried a second time.

"It sure looks like we're closing fast enough," said lunar module pilot Edgar D. Mitchell. But again the attempt failed.

"I'm going to go back out there and try again," he said.

The third try came at 4:26 p.m.

"I hit it pretty good and held four seconds on contact and we did not latch," command module pilot Stuart A. Roosa said.

"We're about out of ideas here," said Mission Control's capsule communicator C. Gordon Fullerton.

Measles Outbreak At School

An outbreak of German measles (rubella) has struck San Rafael High School and appears to be starting at some other high schools in the county.

San Rafael High School health officials said that the diagnoses were unofficial, but that parents of 27 students have reported their children down with the illness. The count included several new cases this morning.

Terra Linda High School reported that about a dozen students had been out of school in recent days with unconfirmed diagnoses of rubella.

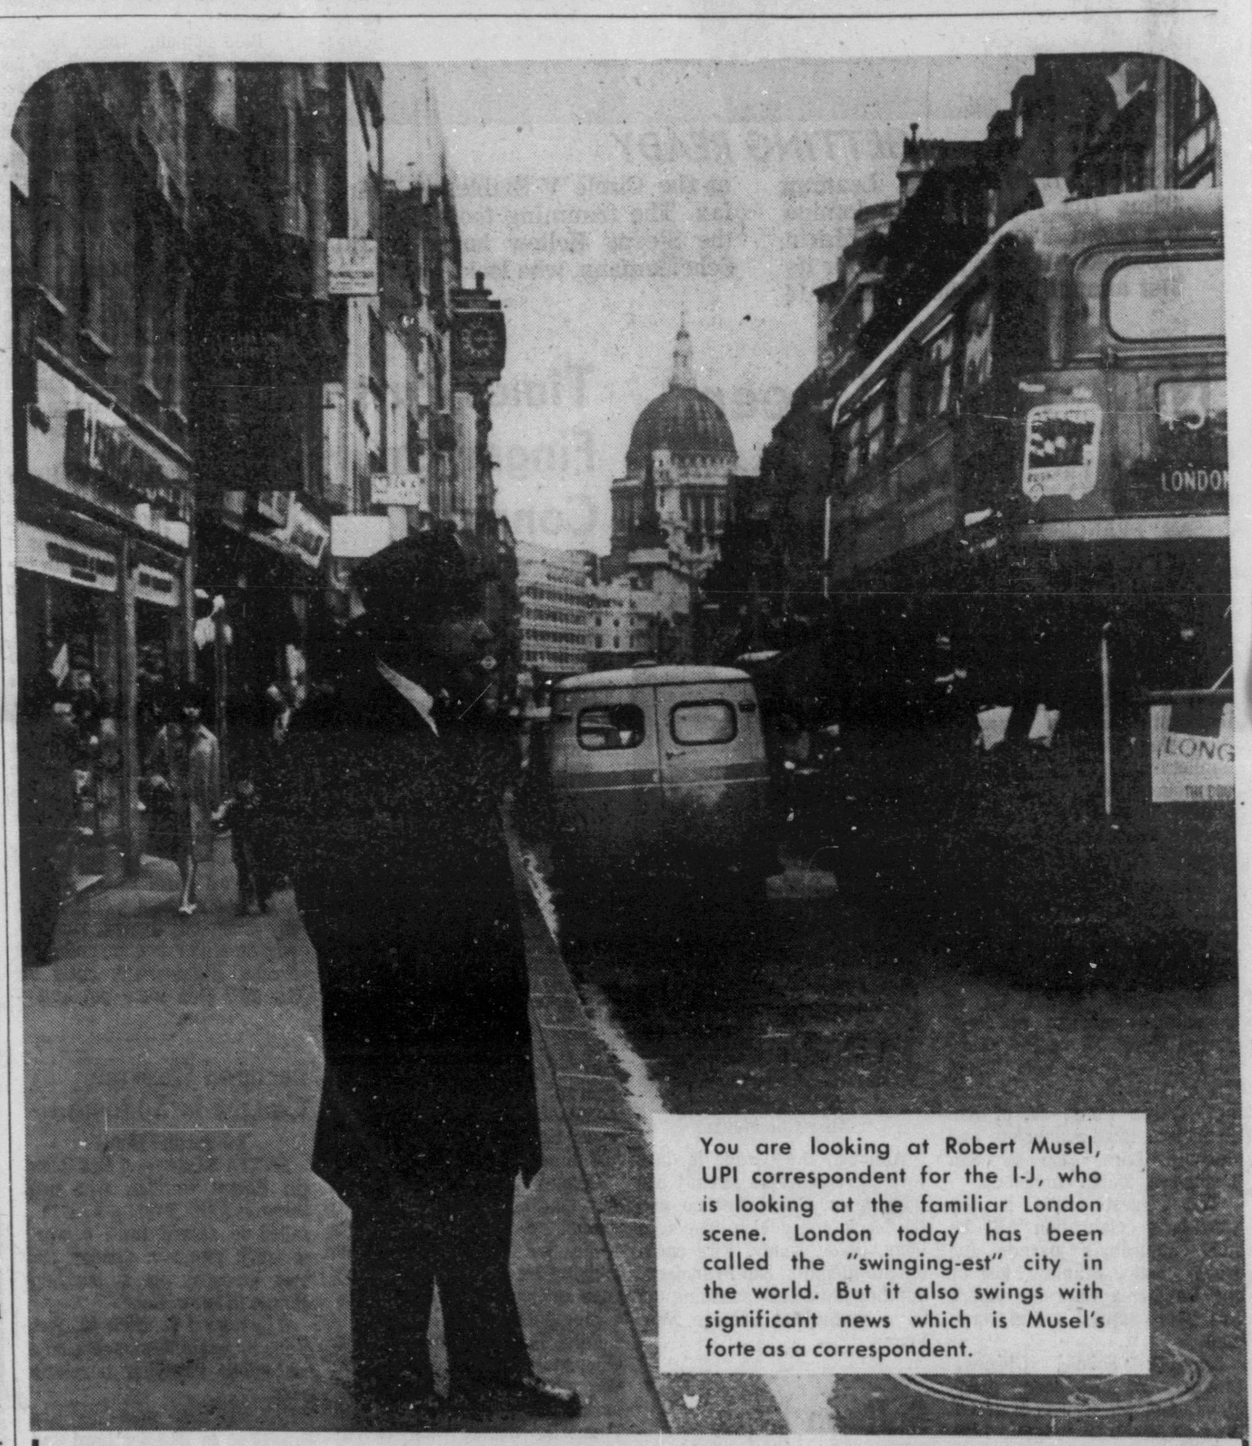
Redwood High School reported no cases, as did Tamalpais High School. Sir Francis Drake High School reported one case last week.

Students are not allowed to attend school for five days after the rash appears.

The county health department's recent rubella inoculation campaign was only for children through age 11.

Best Of Breed

A Skye terrier, Ch. Rover Run Flying Nun, owned by Walter and Carol Simonds of San Rafael, was named best of breed yesterday at the 61st annual Golden Gate Kennel Club Dog Show at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.



You are looking at Robert Musel, UPI correspondent for the I-J, who is looking at the familiar London scene. London today has been called the "swinging-est" city in the world. But it also swings with significant news which is Musel's forte as a correspondent.

Musel owns London

BUT HE'S MORE THAN WILLING TO SHARE IT

Robert Musel, our man in London, seems to have a mortgage on everything that happens of great moment in Britain's mother city. Which means not much will happen which you, in turn, won't know about by reading the I-J.

As UPI's senior editor there he has covered three wars. He was one of the first World War II correspondents to ride into combat with fighter pilots. He came under fire in two Arab-Israeli wars.

Inquisitive, aggressive, Musel has reported from every European country and most of the Middle East and Africa. He covered the German blitz of London in World War II, war crimes trials at Darmstadt, the Berlin airlift, the death of King George, the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. He has interviewed George Bernard Shaw and Albert Einstein, even the stripteasers of the Folies Bergere.

A confidante of entertainment personalities, Musel is also a top song writer. His "Band of Gold" ballad sold over one million records, and he did the background music of "To Paris With Love," starring Alex Guinness.

A man of many sides, Musel has unerring direction in homing in on matters of interest and concern to our readers. For news "Made in London", we suggest you turn to the I-J.

O'Toole Will Seek City Council Post

San Rafael Planning Commissioner Thomas R. O'Toole, who was bypassed in December in his try for a city council appointment, will try again in the April election.

Last Friday, he filed for one of the three city council posts that are up for grabs on April 20. All three incumbents, C. Paul Bettini, Fred E. Jensen, and John A. Miskimen are expected to seek reelection.

O'Toole, part owner of Milani's Garage in San Rafael, was one of several candidates for the city council last year when Fred C. Robbins Jr. resigned to become city attorney.

On Dec. 7, the councilmen appointed Terra Linda attorney Lawrence F. Mulryan, who had the endorsement of the Las Gallinas Valley Council.

At the time of Mulryan's appointment, Jensen said the council had been pressured to appoint someone from Terra Linda.

O'Toole, who lives at 66 Junipero Serra Avenue, has been serving as planning commissioner since Aug. 19, 1969.

RETIRES — Bernard A. Benesh, of 918 Centro Way, Mill Valley, has retired after 25 years with what is now the state Department of Human Resources. He was district manager of disability for Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

Tam CSD Land Offer At $55,000

The Tamalpais Community Services District board has temporarily agreed to hold to its offer of $55,000 for Mill Valley School District property it wants for a park.

The 5.13-acre parcel is located on Eastwood Way and was to have been used for a school. It was found, however, to be too small for a school site.

The Tamalpais board, meeting in special session Friday, said it would hold to the $55,000 offer — a figure reached by an appraiser — until further negotiations with school district officials. The school district has received an appraisal of the property at $78,000.

Glenn Lambacher, president of the Tamalpais board, said negotiations, which have been going on for two months, should resume when the school district weighs separate bids on another piece of property it wants to sell on Harvard Avenue.

Reinecke Due At Women's GOP Meeting

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke will address the California Federation of Republican Women's Northern California convention Wednesday in San Rafael.

Reinecke will speak at a convention banquet beginning at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

The two-day quarterly convention will be addressed on Thursday at a noon luncheon by state GOP chairman Putnam Livermore.

Tickets will be available at the convention, which opens at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Ecology Play At San Rafael High

The San Francisco Player's Guild, a Bay Area professional touring theater for children, will perform "Lucky Boots" a play on ecology at San Rafael High School next Saturday.

The play is sponsored by the Marin Junior Theater and performances will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The comedy, written for elementary and junior high school audiences, dramatizes the urgent need for protecting our environment.

The bifocal lens was invented by Benjamin Franklin about 1760.

Blood Center To Close On Feb. 13

The Marin Blood Center, 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael, will be closed Saturday, Feb. 13 due to celebration of Washington's Birthday.

Instead, the center will be open the following Saturday, Feb. 20, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Chapman Choir To Sing Friday

The Chapman College Concert Choir and Chamber Singers will perform at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 3 Bay View Avenue, in Belvedere Friday night.

The performance will begin at 8 p.m.

Medieval and Reinaissance craftsmen often painted strongboxes and storage chests with emblems, religious symbols and stylized designs.

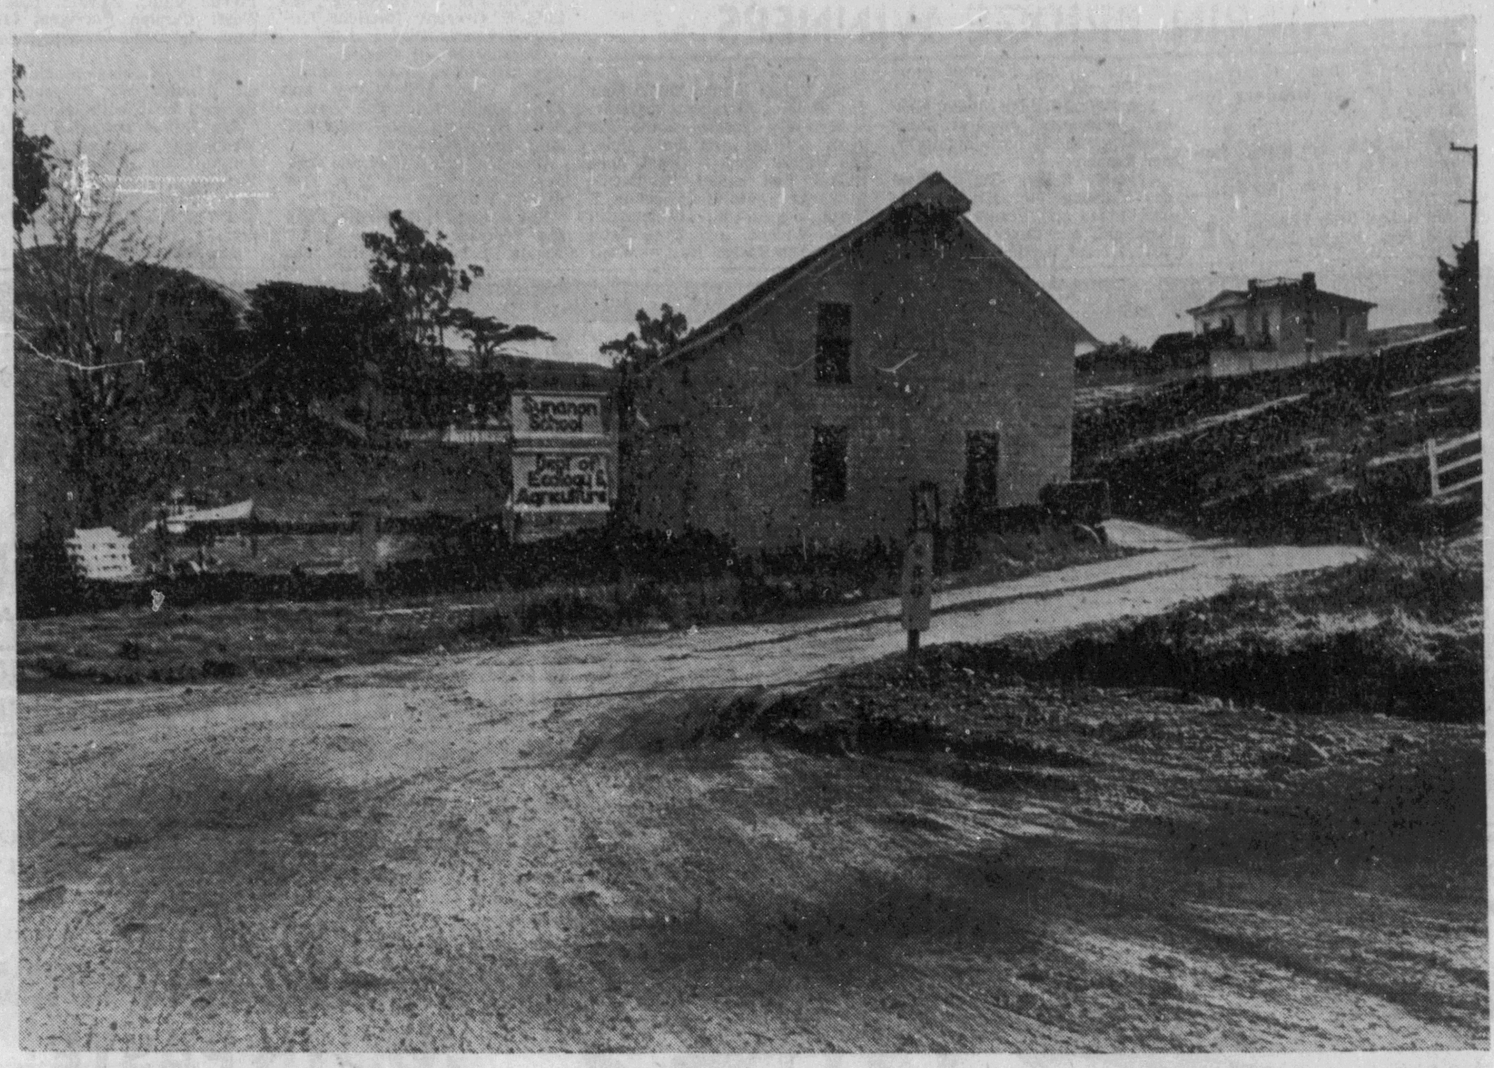
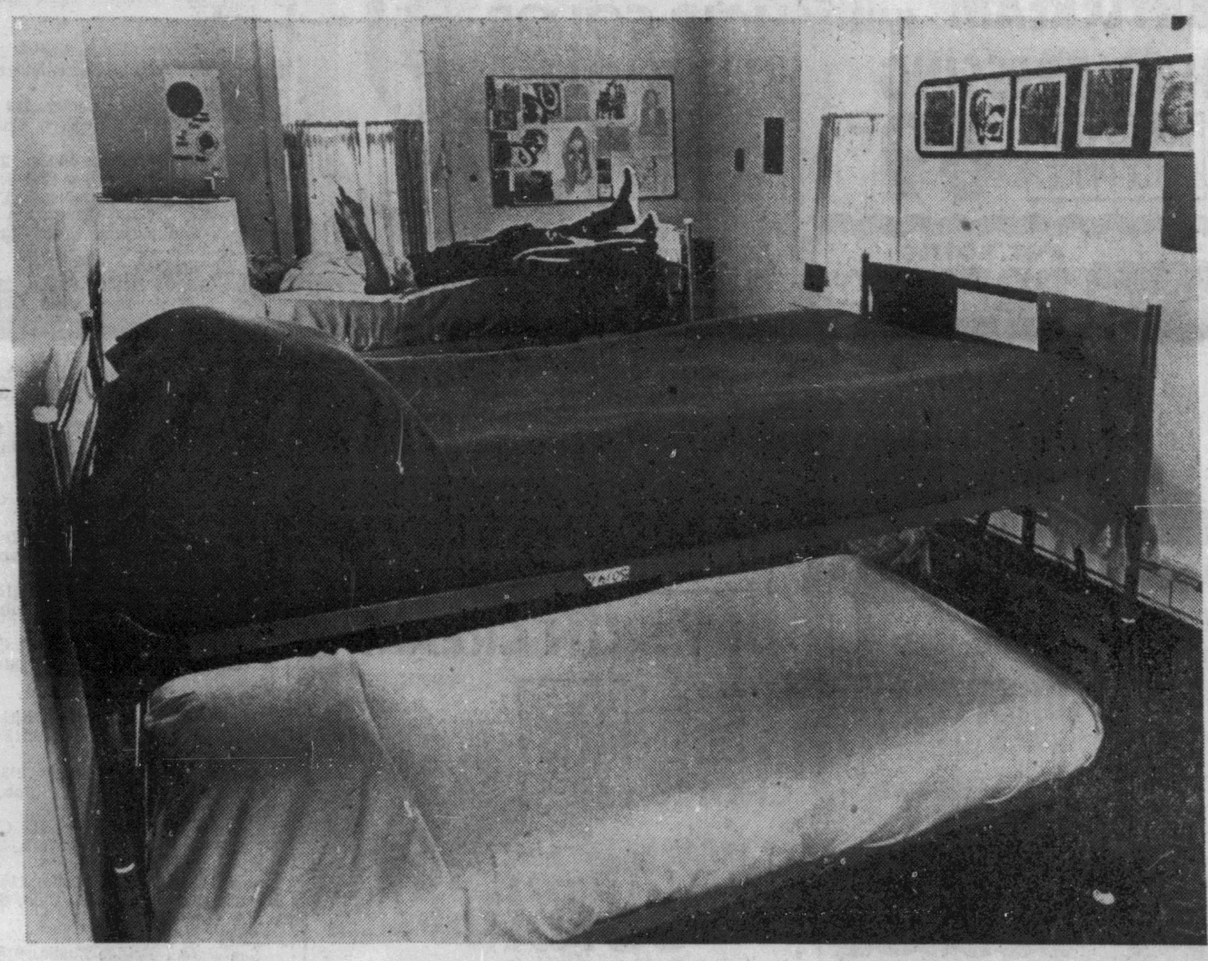
OVERSEEING WORK—Charles Dederich, Synanon founder (left) dressed in overalls, sits on porch of the ranch house and watches renovation of the ranch.



SCHOOL AT RANCH—Synanon signs are up at the entrance to the former M a g g e t t i Ranch, along Marshall-Petaluma Road, east of Marshall, signifying the start of Synanon's project to transform the ranch into a school of ecology and agriculture. Atop the hill at right is the Magetti Ranch home, constructed in 1863.

Synanon Takes Up Ranching



BUNKHOUSE—Rick Avila, a ranch worker, takes advantage of a lull in activities to rest and read a while in the bunkhouse at the ranch, recently renovated by Synanon crews.

Synanon, born of the ills of city streets, has brought its lifestyle to the 100-year-old Maggetti Ranch in West Marin.

It has moved onto the 1,500-acre spread off Marshall-Petaluma Road, east of Marshall, purchased for more than $250,000.

At the entrance is a sign: "Synanon School, Department of Ecology and Agriculture."

It's a far cry from Synanon's struggling start 12 years ago as an organization to rehabilitate drug addicts.

It's not so far from Synanon's community at Marshall, where a communal living "lifestyle" has flourished, attracting not only addicts, but those seeking a different way of life.

Standing in overalls on the porch of the main ranch house and gazing at the surrounding green hills, Charles E. Dederich, Synanon founder, declared: "This will be a showplace in two, three years."

Synanon residents, who formerly roamed city streets looking for a fix, were tearing down old chicken coops, caring for lambs and learning how to saddle up.

Dederich viewed Synanon's newest venture as offering a chance for "animals and people to live together."

The ranch life fits into Synanon's lifestyle said Dan L. Garrett, Synanon attorney, who viewed it as "a great thing for our people."

"It's the Synanon lifestyle, ranch department, since the lifestyle isn't based on where they live or the structure in which they live," Garrett explained.

Under the lifestyle, Synanon residents work without salary, obey the organizations rules and participate in "the game," exchanging of frank, often brutal dialogue in group sessions.

Garrett said the family ranch "kind of lifestyle" is disappearing in the United States, and perhaps Synanon's ranch experiments can help to preserve it.

Synanon, a non-profit organization, can undertake such a project, as compared to private ranchers, who have a heavy tax burden, Garrett observed.

He desicribed it as an expansion of Synanon's operation, rather than a change in emphasis. "It's like the University of California, operating a ranch or a cyclatron," he asserted.

Another factor was, "We wanted to get the kids out of the city," Garrett noted.

The intent is to learn how to operate a ranch and make it more productive.

Synanon residents will learn how to care for sheep, clear the land, and eventually set up a cattle operation, with the help of rancher Robert Borello and his son, Garrett commented.

There also will be emphasis on e c o l o g y and in time the breeding of prize stock and a 4-H program for youngsters, he said.

Garrett conceded that Synanon's intent is "to acquire land at a reasonable price," and had been thinking of acquiring ranch land "for a long time."

Synanon's Marshall 62-acre community is separated from its new ranch by the William Barboni ranch.

Ranch Director Bill Ullman, standing on a knoll at the Synanon ranch, nodded in the direction of the hills which ring the ranch commended, "All the land you can see is ours."

Atop another knoll stands the Maggetti Ranch home, a New England styled building constructed in 1863, with a widow's walk atop the roof, more often seen in New England fishing towns.

It is in a cluster of ranch buildings, including a cottage, bunkhouse, office and animal shelters.

Synanon has announced plans for a city of 20,000 persons overlooking Tomales Bay, but Garrett estimated that the population at the ranch would be "about as many people" as needed there for the ranch operation.

Garrett views the ranch, named as a school, as part of Synanon's educational system and said he hoped the facility could someday receive accreditation as a college.

Since its small start in Santa Monica, Synanon has spread into a national organization, engaged in business, acquired real estate, an educational system, a kind of religion and a social force.

It is now a West M a r i n rancher.

Recall Petition Divides Reed District

RECALL LEADERS — Richard L. and Ann B. Goff, leaders in the move to recall Reed School District Trustee Gordon C. Wright, review efforts thus far in their Tiburon home.

(Independent-Journal photo)

By GEORGE NEVIN

The move to recall Gordon C. Wright, chairman of the Reed School District board, is yet another manifestation of a struggle that has gripped the district for almost two years.

Although side issues of personality and policy cloud the picture, the basic question has remained the same: who shall run the district?

Wright, chairman since July 1970, feels his election in 1969 was a mandate by the voters to scrutinize closely some of Reeds more innovative programs and put a lid on spending.

His view is shared generally by trustees James B. Richwagen and Kenneth G. Wells, elected in 1969 on campaigns opposing tax rate increases.

Although the election marked the turning point in some board policies, controversy simmered long before the election of Wright, Wells and Richwagen.

In a district that has seen recent battles over report cards, resignations of administrators, contract squabbles between the board and teachers, and the failure of tax elections, the recall promises to polarize an already divided district.

But recall proponents insist it's the only way to put Reed back in the business of providing quality education for the 2,000 district children.

Leaders of the recall assert they will have no trouble collecting the approximately 1,200 signatures needed to hold an election. And they don't hesitate to predict the voters will turn Wright out of office overwhelmingly.

Wright, on the other hand, is confident that the move doesn't stand a chance. "I could win hands down," he said. "They're only getting signatures on the petitions by spreading innuendoes and falsehoods about me. If I can present my side to the voters, there's no question I'll win."

Petitions being circulated say Wright's recall "is essential to overcome the atmosphere of hostility, to retain and attract superior administrators and teachers, and to restore the cooperative pursuit of the highest quality education for the children."

The petition says Wright is guilty of "intimidation . . . of teachers and administrators," and accuses him of "fostering an educational climate harmful to the district."

Wright replies that the recall attempt is a "power play, the last attempt by a pressure group to regain control" in the district. Many of the same parents on the recall committee have long opposed him, he said.

"The district, in my opinion, had been run by a group of parents, numerically small, for five or six years before my election," Wright said. The 1969 election threw out the group, he said, and the recall is a way of attempting to regain control.

The Wright-Wells-Richwagen group first collided with the other faction on district report card policy soon after the election. The new trustees wanted to abandon the practice of issuing written evaluation of each student in favor of more conventional report cards. This the district eventually did, at the option of parents, and most parents favored report cards.

GORDON C. WRIGHT
Embattled Trustee

The report card controversy stretched on for half a year, with Wright and a majority of the board pitted against many teachers and a parents' group led by Richard L. Goff and his wife, Ann. The Goffs are leaders of the current recall movement.

Distressed at board action on report cards, district teachers issued a "no confidence" vote against the board. The climate of distrust resulted, the recall committee says, in the exodus of three top administrators, including supt. Robert B. Gaw, and one-fifth of the teaching staff.

But interim Supt. Irwin Karp, who refuses to take a position on the recall, supplied figures that indicate the teacher mortality rate was higher before Wright took office than after.

Only 6.4 per cent of our teachers will leave the district this year, not 20 per cent," he said. The figure for 1969-70 is 7.6 per cent.

By contrast, the figures for the three previous years, starting in 1966, are 10 per cent, 14 per cent and 19.5 per cent, Karp said.

As the recall drive picked up speed — Mrs. Goff said nearly 1,000 signatures have been collected — parents, teachers, and administrators in the district lined up on one side or another or opted not to take a stand at all.

Officers of the Reed Parent-Teacher Club, some of whom are circulating petitions themselves, and of the Reed District Teachers Association, said their groups do not anticipate taking a stand either pro-or anti-Wright.

Trustee Leo Souza, board chairman from 1969-70, who often has been at odds with Wright, said the recall is "the only way to determine if the public's mandate has been clearly understood."

"For the past 15 months," he said, "The public has repeatedly voiced its concerns on the path Mr. Wright and his two companions have taken the district. Frequent requests for reconsideration have been ignored or repulsed."

Richwagen, who said he supports Wright, disputed this statement. "The people behind the recall have been strangely silent in the last 10 months. Not once has anyone approached the board with any charges or complaints," he said.

"It's time for fair play, time for democracy, time to sit down and review the charges and separate the truth from the fiction." Recall, he said, divides a district and should be used only as a last resort.

Ironically, the recall committee agrees. "We wish to point out," says a statement from Mrs. Goff and another recall leader, Carolyn S. Hunter, "that concerned citizens have tried many other avenues of seeking changes — letters, petitions, speaking at board meetings, and private discussions.

"All have failed. We now believe the recall of Mr. Wright and the election of another qualified candidate to fill his place are essential . . ."

To Mrs. Goff, the issue is not so much control of the board as Wright's personality.

"I think a wide spread of philosophies on the board is good," she said, "but we need a man of integrity, one who will work with all of the people and not tune some of them out." Wright, she believes, is not such a man.

The Reed district, a recall committee member pointed out, is at a crossroads, and the outcome of the election could affect board policy for some time.

This is because two board seats, those of Souza and vice chairman Thomas S. Price, will be filled in the April 20 election, and neither incumbent is likely to run again.

If the recall lands on the same April ballot and is successful, three vacancies will be filled and a board majority could be fashioned from the new trustees.

And this is the prize in sight for the winner of the recall sweepstakes.

Business Meeting Time Changed

Kentfield Fire Protection District directors have changed their regular business meeting for February to tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the fire station.

Chief Kenneth T. Kamp said the regular meeting on Feb. 10 will be used to go over bids for a new pumper.

Only Fifth Of Birds Survive Oil Rescue

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Less than one-fifth of the 2,000 birds rescued from the huge San Francisco Bay slick still are alive today, but the survivors are living a life of pampered comfort in special rehabilitation centers.

Across the bay in Richmond, Calif., some 200 surviving birds relax around a pool in an indoor pen where a recording of surf sounds is played 24 hours a day to make the fowl "feel at home."

At the San Francisco Zoo, 150 birds are recovering from the effects of oil-soaked feathers in pens with thermostat-regulated temperatures. "On nice days we let them out to splash in the outdoor pool if they want," said Zoo Director Ronald Reuther.

Thousands of volunteers and Standard Oil Co. workers collected oil-coated grebes, gulls, ducks, loons and other waterfowl from shoreline areas in the days following the Jan. 18 collision of two Standard Oil tankers which spilled 840,000 gallons of bunker oil into the bay and along 50 miles of Pacific Coast.

Naturalists predicted that less than five per cent of the wild birds would survive the effects of the oil and the trauma of being handled and cleaned.

But Bob Rottenburg, coordinator of cleaning activities in Richmond, said he hoped gentle handling and a simulated "natural environment" will increase the survival rate.

"Being dumped in oil alone is enough to kill them," he said, "and if we can save any at all it's a miracle.

"These birds are incredible. They're just like pets. They respond to human handling."

As a last resort, he said, some weak birds were fed honey and brandy for stimulation and many "perked up and reacted favorably."

The birds must be kept in captivity and under special care until the moult—probably September, according to ornithologists here. It takes that long for them to retain natural oils in their feathers which insulate them and enable them to float.

Innocent Plea To Officer Attack

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Morgan Gilbert Doyle, 19, of 42 Southwood Avenue, Ross, has pleaded innocent in San Francisco Municipal Court to charges of attacking a police officer during a December antiwar protest.

Doyle, a student at the University of California in Berkeley, was ordered Friday to return to court March 22 for setting of trial date. He is free on $3,000 bail.

Doyle was arrested Dec. 8 after being identified through news photographs as one of five youths who attacked Patrolman William Navin during the antiwar rally on Nob Hill.

The attack came during a rally opposing the visit to San Francisco of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam.

Detergent Industry Draws Nader's Fire

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Consumer expert Ralph Nader said a few companies, headed by Procter & Gamble, control the detergent industry in America and they are "using the American public as guinea pigs."

Nader, speaking to students at Edgecliff College, said there "is still no real penalty against such firms when their products are determined to be bad for people. "The quality of competition remains the important thing," he said, "but machines should adjust to the people and not people to machines."

Marcus, Stanley Honored

By JOYCE CERWIN

More than 170 persons turned out Saturday night to honor Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax and William A. Marcus, Kentfield, at a testimonial dinner at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael.

The occasion was their retirement after a quarter'century service each on the Marin Municipal Water District's board of directors. Actually, however, the crowd of friends, municipal, county and state officials, who filled the restaurant's huge art exhibit hall, were there to pay tribute to the entire lives of the two men, lives marked by long and varied public service.

Stanley and Marcus turned the occasion into more of a commencement exercise than a retirement party.

Stanley, a former medical er-century service each on the officer of San Quentin turned farmer, ship's doctor and author, most recently launched his fourth book, "History of Marin County," a compilation of about 70 profiles of famous Marin personages and has plans for more.

Marcus, a former vice president of the Wells Fargo American Trust Company, member of numerous presidential commissions, world traveler and student of international economics, plans to continue as a consultant for Wells Fargo and several charitable organizations.

William R. Seeger, general manager of MMWD and master of ceremonies, attributed the more than 400 per cent growth, modernization and success of the water district to the efforts and achievements of these two men since they joined the district in the 1940s.

"They ran a tight ship," Seeger said. "They insisted that the directors of the district conduct its business as if it were their own business."

Stanley and Marcus claim something else in common: both started out at the bottom.

Stanley, a vigorous man at 84, (he greeted and chatted with almost every guest at the pre-dinner cocktail party) touched upon some highlights of his career during the after-dinner program.

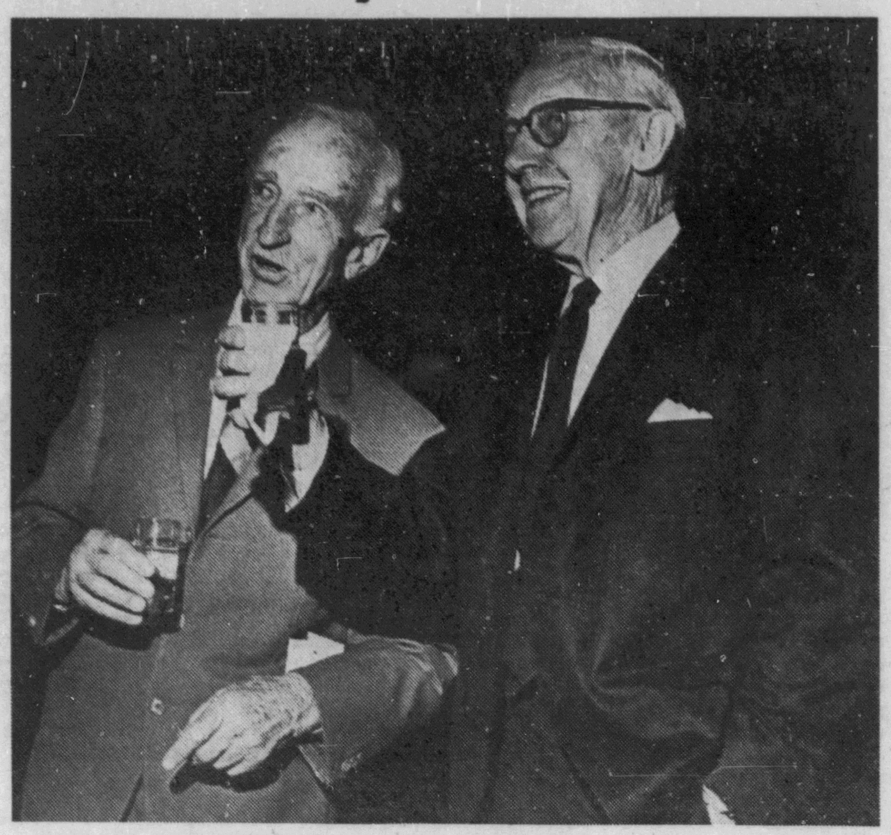
He served as director of the water district since 1947, representing Division 1 which includes the San Geronimo Valley, Fairfax and the area north of San Rafael.

Marcus never mentioned his long and varied career during the after-dinner program. He attributed the improvements and success of the water district over the past 27 years to the team work of both directors and staff.

Asked by a reporter what were his plans now that he was retiring after 27 years as director and past president of the water district, he only laughed and said he would continue working just as before.

He and Stanley received framed tributes of recognition for their years of service to the water district, gold cufflinks, and the applause of the audience attending the testimonial dinner.

"Thanks for the memories," Marcus told the assemblage.



HAIL AND FAREWELL — Dr. Leo L. Stanley (left) and William A. Marcus enjoy a toast. The occasion was a testimonial dinner Saturday night in honor of their years of service to Marin Municipal Water District.

Human Rights Probe On Board's Agenda

Marin County Board of Supervisors' regular session tomorrow will start at 10 a.m., following a meeting of the Marin County Transit District directors.

Major items on the supervisors' agenda include:

APPOINTMENTS — Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum will nominate successors to Lothar Salin and Helen E. Newman on the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Donald C. Moody, who resigned as human rights director last Thursday, will ask for a grand jury investigation to determine the cause of conflict between his department and Bella H. Aaron, who heads the police community relations program.

HOUSEBOATS — Marine Inspector Richard L. Larson will report on the progress of clean-up in the houseboat colony in Richardson Bay. He will ask for abatement of eight more houseboats which do not meet county standards.

AGRICULTURAL PRESERVES — Supervisors will hear various recommendations on what to do about the agricultural preserve areas in Marin. The Land Conservation Advisory board recommended that the agricultural preserve area, now covering 213,000 acres, be reduced to the 92,000 acres that are under agricultural preserve contract.

Driver Hurt

Alfred Piazza, 49, of 10164 Old Redwood Highway, Cotati was reported in good condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with cuts of the left knee and head suffered in an accident yesterday at 1:40 p.m. on Penngrove Avenue at Old Adobe Road, Cotati. The California Highway Patrol lacked details of the accident.

Mortgage Firm Cuts Home Loan Interest

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Mason-McDuffie, one of the largest privately owned mortgage banker firms in California, announced it would accept new applications on single family FHA and VA loans at a 7 per cent interest rate.

The maximum rate currently permitted by FHA and VA is 7½ per cent. Mason-McDuffie said the reduc ed rate is compatible with the recent improvement in the money market.

Apartment House Fire: $31,000

Fire, apparently set deliberately, today caused $31,000 damage to an apartment house under construction in San Rafael.

Fireman Michael Tompkins, 30, was treated after the fire at Marin General Hospital for a strained shoulder and neck suffered pulling hose to the fire.

The fire at Belle and Valencia avenues, reported at 3:52 a.m., caused extensive damage to two of the three floors in the partially completed structure.

Firemen said the cause was under investigation, but noted that electrical connections still were incomplete in the structure, thus the fire probably was arson.

They also reported that the glow in the sky from the blaze could be seen as engines left the fire station. It took almost two hours to extinguish the fire.

The owners of the project are Rudy Middleton and Clinton DeLap.

Two Oldtimers

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ida Lupino and George Raft, two oldtimers, will play cameo roles in "Deadhead Miles" starring Alan Arkin.

Transit Board Due Proposals

Five alternative proposals for the Marin-San Francisco rapid transit system will be discussed tomorrow at 8:30 a.m. by the Marin County Transit District board of directors.

Sonoma Names Castner To Gate Bridge Board

I-J Special Report

Santa Rosa — L. E. (Bud) Castner, dean of the Golden Gate Bridge and High District board, has been reappointed for an indefinite period.

The appointment came after an executive session of the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors Friday afternoon. As in December, the board approved his appointment, but with the stipulation that it would be subject to review by the board at any time.

Board Chairman Iganzio A. Vella had nominated insurance man R. H. Brown of Boyes Springs to replace Castner, who has served on the bridge board since 1952.

E. J. (Nin) Guidotti of Guerneville was also reappointed. The third Sonoma County representative, William R. Lucius of Healdsburg, serves under the appointment of the mayors' and councilmens' association.

Golden Gate Transit: Last Two Public Meetings

The Golden Gate Bridge Highway and Transportation District has been holding a series of town meetings throughout the District—19 meetings, to be exact. The District's consultants and staff have presented, for public discussion, five alternative plans for long-range transportation facilities in the Golden Gate Corridor. Individuals and groups at the meetings have asked questions and offered comments and suggestions, so that the District Directors' recommendations to the State Legislature will fairly reflect public sentiment.

Now the final two public meetings are going to be held—to sum up the alternatives and the public comments on them. Individuals and organizations who have previously attended and have by now had a chance to study the technical reports are welcome to state more definitive views for the record.

If you have not already attended one of the earlier meetings, we think it's important that you know about the challenges of transportation problems and some of the possible solutions. And we think it's important that you express your questions, preferences, and objections. It's a complicated subject which can only be clarified through the kind of public dialogue which the District has tried to encourage.

We again invite you to participate:

GOP Convention Argues, Picks Reagan's Choice

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gordon Luce, the hand-picked candidate of Gov. Ronald Reagan, has been elected No. 2 man in the California Republican Party after a bitterly fought tug-of-war.

Luce, 45, a San Diego savings and loan executive and former member of the governor's cabinet, turned aside the challenge of San Marino attorney Clifford R. Anderson Jr. at the weekend convention of the GOP State Central Committee.

"I see no danger of any split in the party," Luce announced shortly after his election by acclamation Sunday.

Only minutes earlier, Anderson abruptly pulled out of the race and made a seconding speech for the nomination of Luce.

"This is a tough one," Anderson told the 952 delegates, his voice choking back sobs of emotion while the Battle Hymn of the Republic played over the public address system. "It's been a tough fight but we've really been sharpening our teeth for what's ahead in two years."

Anderson, who later confirmed that he was crying, said the "die was cast" when his forces were defeated in a drive to make secret the balloting for the vice chairmanship. The vote was 570-480.

"That was the one that convinced me," he told newsmen and shortly afterward sent word to Luce that he had decided to withdraw.

Supporters of Anderson believed that he could defeat Luce if the balloting were secret and at the same time avoid "embarrassing" Reagan by publicly voting for a candidate other than Luce.

The vice chairman customarily becomes the chairman in another two years and will hold that post during the 1974 gubernatorial and U.S. Senate elections.

Putnam Livermore, San Francisco attorney and retiring vice chairman, was promoted chairman by unanimous vote, succeeding Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach. Livermore was unopposed.

Anderson, director of the GOP's losing Cal Plan for electing Republicans to the legislature, throughout the weekend charged Reagan's staff with campaigning for Luce to perpetuate itself in party power after Reagan leaves office.

But Luce responded he didn't believe "the so-called 'palace guard' has anything to do with this campaign."

Luce, who was Reagan's secretary for business and transportation in 1967-69, said the governor asked him to seek the vice chairmanship because Reagan wanted to assume a more active leadership role in the party.

Luce insisted afterward he believed the outcome would have been unchanged even if the secret vote proposal had passed.

Paul Haerle, 39, a San Rafael attorney and former Reagan staff and campaign aide, easily defeated Assemblyman William Campbell of Hacienda Heights for party secretary, 609-374.

Sen. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia was defeated by Tirsco Del Junco, Los Angeles, former president of the California Republican Assembly, for first assistant party secretary. Mrs. Marjorie Boynton, Ukiah, defeated Mrs. Mike Evans, Orinda, for second assistant secretary.

Frank Adams, Piedmont, also a former CRA president, was elected treasurer after Russ Collier of Menlo Park dropped out. Former Assemblyman Clare Berryhill of Ceres was named assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Nita Ashcraft, San Francisco, was selected northern women's chairman, while Mrs. Ann Bowler, Long Beach, and Mrs. Virginia Brock, Bakersfield, were named southern and central women's chairmen, respectively.

Reagan commended Anderson for withdrawing, saying it "reaffirmed my faith that a person can submerge his personal desires for the benefit of the Republican Party."

Luce, who said he was committed to getting more volunteers active in the party, said that as chairman "I'll never be taking sides on our Republicans."

The state Republican convention also adopted a series of resolutions, including an appeal for the legislature to submit to the voters a proposed constitutional amendment lowering the legal age of adulthood from 21 to 18 and allowing 18-year-olds to vote in all elections.

The Democratic State Convention last week called for 18-year-olds to vote in state and local elections as well as federal elections but was silent on the issue of reducing the age of majority.

The Republicans also called on the Democratic controlled legislature to give Chicanos a "fair and just" share of reapportioned legislative and Congressional seats.

Snow Party Stormbound, Man Dies

RED LODGE, Mont. (UPI) —A snowmobile tour over one of Montana's highest mountain peaks ended in tragedy Sunday when one of the 16 members of the party died while the group was caught in a storm and forced to take cover in a snow cave.

The victim was identified as Hugh D. Galusha Jr., 52, a native of Helena, Mont., and president of the 9th Federal Reserve District in Minneapolis. The cause of death was undetermined.

The snowmobile party, including Minnesota Vikings football players Jim Marshall and Paul Dickson, left Red Lodge Saturday on a tour covering a 65-mile route over the rugged Beartooth Highway to Cooke City at the northeast corner of Yellowstone National Park.

The road runs through rugged mountain country bordering the Wyoming-Montana line and reaches near the 12,000-foot elevation at the summit.

According to Park County Sheriff Don Guintoni, Minneapolis newsman Jim Klobuchar —who organized the party —said the group became trapped in a storm on the mountain and were forced to take cover in the snow cave Saturday night.

Vern Waples of Red Lodge, an off-duty fish and game warden acting as a guide for the group, went to call for help Sunday morning but Galusha died before a rescue party from Cooke City could reach the site.

A snowmobile from a Cooke City lodge later arrived and took 12 of the members of the party to Cooke City while three others remained at the scene with the body.

$25,000 Damage In Apartment Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A pre-dawn, three-alarm fire today caused $25,000 damage to a three-story downtown apartment building.

No one was injured in the blaze at 225 Jones St., which required the work of 140 firemen and 32 pieces of equipment to control.

Nursing Homes Warned On Medi-Cal Charges

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California nursing home operators have been warned that to collect more than approved Medi-Cal charges from their patients would violate state and federal law.

Dr. Earl Brian, director of the state Health Care Services Department which administers Medi-Cal, the state medical program for the needy, issued the admonition Sunday.

He added that homes violating fee laws "might be jeopardizing future participation in Medi-Cal related programs."

The Reagan Administration has ordered a 10 per cent reduction in payments for Medi-Cal nursing home patients to head off a projected $70 million deficit.

"There is considerable confusion over the 10 per cent reduction," Brian said in a statement. "Some individuals believe the reduction and a new lower rate will go into effect on Feb. 1. This is not true."

He explained that a public hearing on the rates has been started and would not be "completed for some time." He added the entire issue would then be returned to the Sacramento Superior Court for review.

Brian said some homes have indicated they would bill Medi-Cal "at their private rates" beginning today.

"This is contrary to the intent of federal and state laws and such billings would not be accepted," he said.

Some homes have advised his office to pay their demands or arrange for the transfer of Medi-Cal patients to other facilities.

In response, he said, his office has indicated to local welfare departments it will assist them "in fulfilling social services responsibilities which includes finding other nursing homes in which the beneficiary may wish to receive care."

He said the attending physician is "generally consulted" and customarily must agree before a patient is discharged.

"I think it is important for the public to understand that Medi-Cal beneficiaries in nursing homes will continue to receive proper care. No patient is —or will be —neglected as a result of the necessary action taken by the Department of Health Care Services."

California's Legislature Rated No. 1 In Capability

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A non-profit, non-partisan group today named the California Legislature as No. 1 in the nation in capability but criticized if for having "too many committees."

The ranking resulted from a $200,000 study of all state legislatures by the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures on "how well their operations reflect minimum standards of efficiency and procedures."

The study zeroed in on the extent the legislatures throughout the nation were functional, accountable, informed, independent and representative.

The conference said California's legislature ranked first in the functional category, third in accountability, second in being informed, third in independence and second in representation.

On the minus side —besides having too many committees — the conference said lawmakers were saddled with "too many committee assignments.

"In addition, published rules of committee procedure are needed, as well as public access to committee reports and roll calls showing how each member votes."

The conference also called for better minority representation on committees, statements of intent by bill authors and preparation of bill summaries.

Consumers Are More Optimistic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The commerce department reported 17.2 per cent of the families questioned in a survey expect an increase in their income in the next six months while 6.7 per cent of the families anticipate a decline.

The department said the results show that consumers are more optimistic about their financial futures than they were when the last survey was taken in October. At that time 16.7 per cent expected raises and 7.3 per cent anticipated salary cuts.

The survey indicates there may be some increase in consumer buying in the coming months. Many families have been saving more than the usual amount of their incomes recently because they feared a further deterioration in the economy.

Consumer Adviser Warns Advertisers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, told the advertising industry today it will either have to reform itself or be reformed by the government.

"As I travel around the country, one question keeps recurring from the housewives I meet. They want to know why so many ads treat women like children, like third graders," she said.

"Should the American housewife be treated like a moron? Is the best selling appeal one which insults a person's intelligence. . .? You are at the crossroads because there are those in the advertising world who are not so decent, not so honorable," she added. "There are those who believe integrity is something one can sell or buy for a few dollars."

Mrs. Knauer made the remarks in a speech prepared for a conference on the American Advertising Federation.

"This audience—the advertising profession—is at this point right now," she said. "The choice is still yours. One road leads to government regulations, the other to self-reform.

Mrs. Knauer said the industry has reached the crossroads because the Federal Trade Commission is now moving to correct advertising abuses. The FTC, she said "has been giving you a message which is loud and clear. It's posted on the crossroads' signboard. It reads 'reform or be reformed'."

She said tomorrow's market is bound to be based on "quality advertising" because:

—"An increasing number of firms are beginning to learn something their forefathers understood very well—quality sells, and service to consumers sells."

—"The American public is going to hold as contemptible those advertisers who hold the public in concept—third grade appeals work with third graders, not with adults."

—"Either the advertising industry is going to be honest because it chooses to be honest, or because the government is going to make it be honest."

She predicted the day would come when a firm is going to have to confess publicly "I misled the public."

"When that day comes, it is going to be a nightmare for the firm that has to make a public confession," she said. "But it's a nightmare which a firm will have richly earned."

The Art Of Japanese Tray Landscapes

MRS. DAVID Bartruff guides the hand of her 3-year-old daughter, Emiko, as they look at a Bankei, Japanese tray landscape, Mrs. Bartruff has made. Mother and daughter wear kimonos and observe Japanese customs in their Sleepy Hollow home. A native of Korea, Maria Miyagi Bartruff studied the ancient art for three years at the Skizandryu School in Tokyo to receive a certificate for teaching.

"Baneki — Japanese tray landscapes — is not as well known in America as Bonsai," says Maria Miyagi Bartruff, who displays examples of the ancient art in her Sleepy Hollow home.

"It is a very specialized art which I studied for three years at the Skizandryu School in Tokyo to receive my certificate for teaching," she explains.

Mrs. Bartruff, dresses in kimonos at home and her 3-year-old daughter, Emiko, invites visitors to take off their shoes and step into slippers as they entered her home.

"We observe such Japanese customs so that Emiko may know them as well as the customs of her American home," he mother explains.

MRS. BARTRUFF creates a new tray landscape about four or five times each year usually at the changing of the seasons. The landscapes need constant care. They must be watered several times a week so that the special clay used to construct the mountains and cliffs does not harden.

Maria was born in Korea and educated at the University of Tokyo. After graduation from college she taught cooking, sewing and civics in Japanese schools. Cooking is still one of her special interests along with caring for the garden and grounds which surround the Bartruff home.

"The fruit trees need special pruning," she says, "and I spend a great deal of time in the garden."

Her husband, David Bartruff, is a professional photographer and maintains his own business. He has done extensive photography in the Orient, having lived in Japan for 10 years. At one time he did the photography for Japan Air Lines. He returns to Japan periodically to gather new material for lectures on Japan which he offers to groups and organizations.

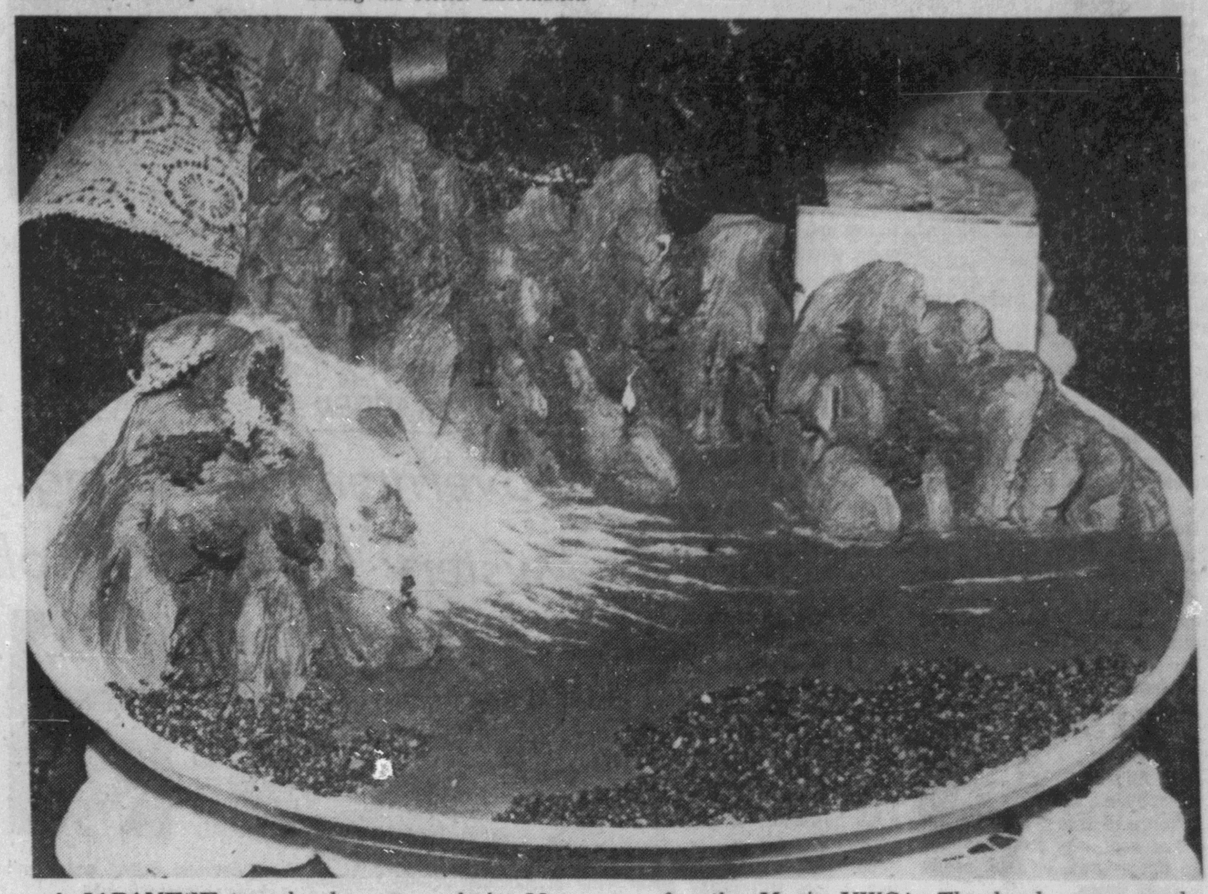
Mrs. Bartruff says she likes living in the United States, "but I still have family and friends in Japan so I return home several times a year to keep in touch with them."

She is an active participant in the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael because, "I like people and want to help where I can," she explains.

THE BARTRUFFS both enjoy sharing their interests with others and will be host and hostesses for the Marin YWCA at a series of authentic Japanese experiences starting early in February. A Sukiyaki luncheon and a Japanese tea will be prepared and presented for YWCA members and interested women in the community.

Customs and Ceremonies — Japanese, "the little things so important to this culture," according to Mr. Bartruff, will be emphasized in the illustrated lecture he is scheduled to give during the series. Information for these events may be obtained from the YWCA.

Maria Bartruff will build a Bankei landscape for her guests while her husband is giving his lecture.



A JAPANESE tray landscape made by Mrs. David Bartruff of Sleepy Hollow sits on a placemat, indicating its size. Mrs. Bartruff will build a Bankei landscape as her husband gives lectures on Japanese experiences for the Marin YWCA. The landscapes need constant care and must be watered several times a week so that the clay used to construct mountains and cliffs does not harden.

Survey Reports 1,000 Laws Discriminate Against Women

The first complete survey of the law as it affects women in 50 states reveals that more than 1,000 state laws now in force discriminate against women — with married women their principal victims.

"In most states of the Union the most sacrificial act a woman can perform is to get married," concludes the study compiled by the editors of a national women's magazine in New York.

While showing no evidence of a "conspiracy to repress women," the study indicates that social attitudes of 50 years ago have, by default, been preserved by law — and that reform is urgently needed.

The McCall's study reveals, for example, that 42 of the 50 states still apply common law principles to marital property — meaning that income and property acquired by each partner during the marriage remains separately owned in the event of a breakup. Since most women don't have the opportunity to acquire earnings and property while raising a family, they are left with little when their marriages fail, according to the report.

In an area of employment three discriminate against working women: the employer, the labor unions and the employment agencies.

There are some fair-employment laws to deal with all three. Although these laws work, they are by no means available on a nationwide basis, and there is no consistent pattern across the country, the report states.

Moreover, "Originally, the so-called Protective Labor Laws were designed to prevent the exploitation of women by providing health and security regulations; but now they serve as a convenient cover for putting working women at a disadvantage to men."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the report show:

— In California, Florida, Nevada and Pennsylvania, wives wishing to start their own businesses "must sometimes accept the humiliation" of going to court to prove their fitness;

— In North Carolina, if a wife kills her husband, half the property passes immediately to the husband's estate. The other half is held by the wife during her lifetime, but on her death passes to the estate of her husband.

Even the famous "unwritten law" remains to serve a husband rather than his wife. Under Texas law, a man who kills his wife's lover has a complete defense, whereas a woman taking revenge upon her mate's mistress has no similar legal justification, according to the report.

Saint-Laurent's Shocking Floozy Look

THE LOOK of World War II days was revived in several Paris spring-summer collections shown last week. Saint—Laurent's models evoked the look of soldier-chasing girls of wartime France while Marc Bohan revived the traditional suit for women. Two of Bohan's designs are left, a white flannel blazer over a long navy flannel Bermuda worn with a navy, red and white printed silk blouse. Right is a red flowered crepe de chine dress.

(UPI Cablephoto)

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) —Members of the international fashion world today condemned the Yves Saint-Laurent 1940's floozy look, but they had to admit the girls may go wild over his spring high fashion collection.

The bespectacled designer proved he was still the "enfant terrible" of haute couture when he scandalized press and buyers Friday with a spring show evoking of soldier-chasing girls of wartime France.

"It was a mistake, an error," the Paris newspaper Le Figaro said. One of the most important buyers at the show, Irene Satz of the Ohrbach chain in the United States, said the collection was "a big disappointment."

U.S. fashion columnist Eugenia Shephard said the show was "frankly, definitely and completely hideous" and the "suicidal gesture of all time." Another U.S. critic, Eleanor Lambert, wrote "the showing was like watching a police raid."

But Miss Shephard admitted Yves fans also would consider the show frankly, definitely and completely chic. Madames Satz and Lambert and Le Figaro agreed there was a new trend hidden among the fur jackets and fake flowers and young girls might well go for inexpensive copies.

MANY OF the World War II were those most women wore in the jitterbug era —mannish tailored suits with broad shoulders, black crepes swathed tight around the hips, turbans, shoes with platform soles and four-inch heels and square fox "chubby" coats.

Saint-Laurent, who was born in 1936, said recently he thought women never were more chic then between 1938-1945.

Older fashion critics call that period the ugliest in the history of female clothing.

Many of the items in the Saint-Laurent show left the audience in a shocked daze. One mannequin in bright rouged cheeks and lips looked like Lili Marlene waiting under a lamppost near a red light district in a bright green chiffon gown with short puffed sleeves covered with artificial flowers. Another swivelled by in purple crepe, waist plastered with sequins in violent hues.

ARTIFICIAL flowers were plunked at the waist, on the bosom or in the girls' long brassy blonde or red curly hair. One girl wore a stuffed little bluebird in her Deanna Durbin hairdo. Virtually the only wartime item Yves forgot was an ankle bracelet.

The show stopper was a series of gowns in a fabric printed with pornographic scenes from Greek vase paintings.

Bitter Coffee

Bitterness in coffee may be caused by allowing coffee to stand in the percolator, using stale coffee, or allowing coffee to percolate too long.

HELEN HELP US!

She Uses His Best Scotch For Cleaning Her Diamond Ring

Dear Helen:

You think you know everything about the girl you married and then . . . I came home last night to find my wife's wedding and engagement rings soaking in almost a half-jigger of my best Scotch. Whisky, she says, is a great cleaner for diamonds, and Scotch being most expensive — well nothing but the best for the rings I gave my bride.

What do you call this, Helen? — DENNIS

Dear Dennis:

Scotch on the rocks, what else?

Be glad your bride hasn't read somewhere that booze is superior for washing down walls.

And tell her diluted ammonia is less risky than whisky, husbandwise. — H.

Dear Helen:

Our daughter says it's going around school that peanut butter and butter sandwiches are aphrodisiac. (Something about mixing the two.) She heard it in her sex education class, though not from the teacher. Could this have a grain of truth? — ALL THOSE YEARS OF PEANUT BUTTER

Dear All:

Not even a speck.

Nor is it true about mandrake root, sea foods, ground up tiger claws, or snail heads in spicy sauce.

(Ah, sex education classes — they do make life interesting for parents.) — H.

Dear Helen:

I have been married to a sweet, Christian wife for 20 years. This has left me kind of alone because I am not saved. So I went out a lot, thought it was never serious. That is, until I met this 24-year-old girl two years ago.

I found out she had three children, but only one of them was her husband's. You see, she'd been separated several times, and each time some guy came along, fooled her and left her with a baby.

I made up my mind I would prove to her that all men were not alike, so I bought her clothes and treated her like a princess. Also paid her rent when she couldn't manage it.

Then she got a call from her sister in Cleveland: Sickness in the family. I paid for her plane ticket and got new luggage for her. Soon she wrote that she'd cashed in the other half of her ticket and spent the money to live on, and "Please help, as I have no one else to turn to." I sent her all the money I had and she wrote back saying she must be falling in love with me.

So I sent her fare to come home the next week, and everything went fine — until she announced she was going back to her husband, who now had a good job.

That didn't last long, and since I was still crazy about her, I went back to supporting two families. I should say here that this girl is the helpless, dreamy, kind of withdrawn type that worries you when she isn't happy. So I sent her to Cleveland to help her morale. I gave her $400 and she swore she'd always be true to me. Her next letter said she was tired of her old life and it was all over between us. I now haven't heard from her in two months. Her children are farmed out to relatives here and they won't or can't tell me anything.

Helen, please tell a fool in love what to do? — F. P.

Dear F.:

Get smart. Look, friend, you were took, and took plenty. If your sweet, patient wife will have you, crawl back to her and try to make up for all those years of fooling around. — H.

Government Is Trying To Take Mystery Out Of Gasoline Types

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Some of the mystery in buying gasoline is beginning to evaporate. And the result may mean an extra jingle in the pockets of many motorists.

Most of the pressure for change is coming from the Federal Government's move to get more information for gasoline buyers and get the lead out for cleaner air.

The Federal Trade Commission recently set a "final" date for the posting of gasoline octane ratings at dispensing pumps. The date is next June 28. But that may still be postponed if the industry succeeds in delaying it. The rule was first proposed in June, 1969.

Some stations already post octane ratings; others display grades of octane quality by blend number. But the usual custom is to indicate only whether gasoline is regular or premium, which is like saying low or high octane.

Octane is the most important measure of gasoline quality. It does not indicate power. All gasolines have the same power. Octane is an indication of ability to avoid engine knock or ping, which can harm engines.

THE IMPORTANT thing is to use an octane that fits the engine. A car designed to take premium, or high octane, gasoline will not operate efficiently on regular gasoline. There will be a decided engine knock and a sluggish performance.

On the other hand, the use of premium gasoline in an engine that needs only regular will not improve the car's performance. This is a fact that millions of motorists ignore or don't know, to the delight of oil companies that profit from the money consumers waste.

One of the problems has been the failure of motorists to read or heed their owner's manual containing recommendations for which gasoline grade to use on each model. Some manuals also have not been clear.

But that is all changing rapidly. Most of the new 1971 cars are coming with octane ratings set for 91, about one point below the usual octane rating for "sub-regular" gasoline and three points below most regular gasolines. Premium grades range in the 98 to 100 octane level. Actual octanes vary by section of the country.

THE 91 OCTANE rating for most 1971 cars is for non-lead gasoline. But elimination of the lead to reduce air pollution has brought an average price increase of two cents per gallon.

According to one company spokesman, however, the use of non-lead gasoline will also reduce wear, particularly in spark plugs, mufflers and emission control devices. Motorists who pay an extra two cents a gallon for non-lead gasoline may wind up with a net savings on repair costs.

For most cars, it is still possible to shop around for lower priced gasoline, either leader or non-leaded, and save money. The ultimate test is to try a lower octane. If it brings no definite engine ping when you accelerate, then the gasoline is suitable for your car's engine.

The fact is that many motorists can buy lower octane gasoline, even the extra priced non-leaded kind, and realize a net saving not only in the purchase price but in lower repair bills.

Opportunities for doing so will be greatly improved with the posting of octane ratings both at service stations and in owners' manuals.

She is national area representative for "World Problems".

Mrs. Wallace said domestic policies have emerged as the dominant concern of members of the association as determined from over 3,000 issues submitted by about 1,000 of the AAUW branches throughout the country.

The new topics that the Mill Valley, Central Marin and Novato branches will be adopting according to the special interests of their members are: (1) this beleaguered earth — dealing with ecological problems (2) A dollar's worth — designed to deal with increasing members' understanding of the economic system (3) We the people — concerning responsiveness of government to needs and wishes of the people and not only courts and police but all institutions that assure or deny social and legal justice and (4) The crisis in public education — stressing the need for assessment and reform as well as promotion and support of quality educational opportunities for all.

MANY MARIN women are involved in a tour of the Clausen House Homes, Inc. Sunday in Oakland sponsored by the Clausen House Homes Auxiliary, since most of the 30 members are Sausalito residents.

Ring, Ring He Gets The Ring Back

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A single man who gives a girl an engagement ring is entitled to get it back if the wedding is called off. Married men don't have that right, the Court of Appeals ruled Thursday.

Edwin S. Lowe of New York City gave Jayne Duncan Quinn a 9.5 carat diamond engagement ring valued at $60,000, but the lady changed her mind about the whole thing before Lowe could get a divorce and marry her.

If Lowe had not been married it would have been a different story, said Chief Judge Stanley Fuld.

"An engagement ring is in the nature of a pledge for a contract of marriage," said his majority opinion. "Under the common law it was settled that if the recipient broke the engagement she was required, upon demand, to return the ring on the theory that it constituted a conditional gift.

"A different result is compelled where, as here, one of the parties is married," said Fuld. "An agreement to marry under such circumstances is void. . . and it is not rendered valid by the fact that the married individual contemplated divorce and the agreement was conditioned on procurement of the divorce."

Canadian Ballet Not Perfect But Worth Keeping An Eye On

By MARIE RAMEAU

BERKELEY — The Canadian Ballet concluded its Bay Area performances with ambitious "Swan Lake," although this is not to say that yesterday's matinee at Zellerbach Auditorium, Berkeley, was totally palatable.

On one hand, Erik Bruhn's revision of this classical-romantic ballet by the 19th Century choreographers Petipa and Ivanov was aesthetically pleasing in its effective simplicity.

On the other hand, numerous alterations and omissions were obvious, the famous pas de trois in the first act being conspicuously absent. The interpolation of some totally unfamiliar music into the second act was also baffling and unnecessary particularly for the familiar "Black Swan" pas de deux.

Most of the corps de ballet and pas de deux passages remained close to the original, and the mazurka and czardas were borrowed from the Bolshoi Ballet. The ballet's proportion, however, was distorted by telescoping the traditional four acts into two, and the addition of the Black Queen became, instead of a dramatic reinforcement, a strictly comic-opera distraction.

Even more out of context were the clowns in the ballroom scene. Jesters, of course, were a commonplace in the courts of the Renaissance, after which period this version was styled. But their antics were not even funny, and the Canadians' weakness in character work was also shown up in the rather bland polonaise which finished Act. 1.

Desmond Heeley's decor and costumes were impressive in their richness, imagination and taste, but the miniature orchestra persisted in playing out of tune. Being seated directly over the brass section in no way alleviated the effect and neither could one help noticing that the Zellerbach stage is too small for a full-scale ballet. The dancing, however, proved that this is certainly a company worth keeping an eye on.

The dual role of Odette-Odile, performed by Karen Kain, is superbly taxing on a dancer's dramatic as well astechinical resources, and Miss Kain failed to display the contrast between the touching fragility of Odette and the malicious brilliance of Odile. Essentially a lyrical dancer, she is endowed with long, classical lines as well as a polished technique, but here she appeared detached from the evolution of the tragic plot. She was, nevertheless, very musical and her dancing was distinguished by a remarkable attention to detail. She therefore impressed this reviewer as a talent capable of significant development within the traditional "ballerina" repertoire.

As the Prince, Hazaros Surmeyan was noble and elegant in the manner of Bruhn while in no sense approximating his technical proficiency. In spite of this he presented himself with a certain elan, also demonstrating a fine elevation. Yet in a slow variation his feeling for a clear and sustained line was not offset by the necessary strength of attack, and the result was a bit pastel.

It was the corps de ballet sequences which indicated that the Canadians are very much at home in classical work. They were crisp and precise even in the intricate variation of the Four Swans, although the tempo for this seemed needlessly slow.

A capacity audience demonstrated good classical ballet has stood the test of time, in this instance affording welcome respite from a predominantly modern repertoire.

ART REVIEW

Katzpuffi? Wolfschute? The Show Is Frustrating

By MARY LOU STRIBLING

The exhibits at the College of Marin Art Gallery are nearly always a visual treat as far as physical arrangement is concerned, and their new show of graphics and weaving is no exception. From the standpoint of a reviewer, however, it has one frustrating element.

Nothing is identified — not by catalogue number, title, nor artist. This gives one a choice of making vague assertions about the show as a whole, or of attempting to describe specific entries in such terms as, "The third piece down from the right hand wall has some of the monumental qualities of an early Picasso. . . ."

That is, it's third down if you enter from the campus door. If you enter from the back, it's fifth up on the left wall. I think.

This might be forgiveable for a student show, but since the lithographs on display include a number of luminaries, it is exasperating.

The prints are signed, of course, but unfortunately, the artists' graphic skills do not include handwriting. Most appear to have been done by a person named Katzpuffi. Or perhaps it is Wolfschute. Or Zutttch.

The weavings make the show, anyway. In this case, we at least know they are all done by Barbara Shawcroft, who has taken the art of woven fibers as far from sedate tapestries and wooly yard goods as Peter Voulkos has carried ceramics from the classic pot.

Her sculptures are interlacings of rope, yarn, feathers, string, and other unidentifiable materials, and exhibit a delightful disregard for conventional subject matter. There is a "Guatemalan turnip," complete with braided rootlets, and a greyish hanging with a long, drippy snout which has an unmistakable resemblance to an elephant's head. Two enormous nudes, one white, one brown, dangle from the ceiling to confront each other somewhat apathetically.

But one figure dominates the room. She is tightly woven in shades of red and has a tangled mane of harsh, black hair. She crouches ready to spring from her corner seat, surveying the scene like some sinister practioner of witchcraft.

It's impossible to escape the penetrating glare of her brilliant wall-eyes, and as I circled her warily, I caught myself mumbling, "Honest, lady, I want to be your friend!"

Letter Arrives 45 Years Late

MERCHANTVILLE, N. J. (UPI)—Its two-cent stamp still intact, the letter arrived at 219 Plymouth Place a little late, at least 45 years after it was mailed from Boston.

It was sent to Mrs. George Leach, who died in 1953, by her sister, now also dead. The current residents tracked down Mrs. Leach's husband in nearby Haddonfield when the letter arrived last month. He said the family lived on Plymouth Place from 1923 to 1925.

On the envelope was the notation, "Found in empty equipment, South Boston Postal Annex." The postmark read Jan. 9, 1971, the day the post office in Boston added the zip code and mailed the letter.

Garbage Collection Hike On Agenda

A request from the Marin Sanitary Service to increase garbage collection rates will be discussed Wednesday when the Larkspur City Council meets at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Other items on the agenda include the acceptance of bids for work on the Bon Air Bridge and a discussion of a burglary and fire alarm system ordinance to control installation of automatic alarms.

Tragedy Strikes

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ambrosio Zavala, 39, and his son Mario, 9, were struck and killed by a railroad train Sunday night as they stood watching jet planes taking off from Los Angeles International Airport.

A FITTING FAREWELL FOR VARDA

Carrying flowers, wine and food, Sausalito artist Jean Varda's many friends arrived on the ferryboat Vallejo, his former home, yesterday to say goodbye to one of the Bay Area's last authentic characters. Above, his daughter, Vagadu, wearing a long purple dress and flowered hat, carried her father's ashes to the celebration. Below, friends aboard Varda's boat, the Chimera, prepare for a final sail out the Golden Gate to the Pacific Ocean where the artist, who died in Mexico three weeks ago at the age of 77, had asked his ashes be left. Two Rock Army Station: It Will Close, But When?

By BONNIE BARD

Petalumans have been wondering for years if there's a chance that the Two Rock Ranch Army Station might close. Now they're simply wondering when.

The best information that post personnel and community leaders have received from Washington D. C. —furnished by Sen. Alan Cranston and Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District — is that the post will be closed, but no decision has been made as to when or whether the deactivation will come in one swift blow or in phases.

The Greater Petaluma Chamber of Commerce stands alone in making an effort to keep the post active. "We're the only ones still trying to keep it open while everyone else is busy trying to find a new use for it," said Chamber President James McCaffrey.

The chamber is most concerned about the economic effect to Petaluma in the loss of the annual Two Rock payroll of nearly $2 million.

"The chamber, city and economic development board have been working hard to lure industry to the area," McCaffrey said. "We bring in some small payrolls and then we lose one that's three times as large."

McCaffrey said he believed that nearly 80 per cent of the post payroll finds its way into Petaluma, but admits his estimate may be too high.

Post officials estimate that many of the personnel shop on post, at Hamilton Air Force Base or at the Presidio, but do spend some money in Petaluma on entertainment, rent and some shopping.

Although the post has not yet been deactivated, many large apartment buildings which cater to service families are advertising vacancies for the first time in two or three years.

McCaffrey said he feels Petaluma has a shortage of good housing anyway and that the situation will balance out with new growth. "The nice apartments will continue to do well, but the older units may have continuing vacancies," he said.

Burdette A. Shannon, chamber manager, has been working hard to keep the base open and has been in continual contact with the offices of Clausen, Cranston and Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler.

"What we want to do is keep the payroll in Petaluma," Shannon said. Shannon, who served 20 years in the Army, said he felt the final decision on Two Rock would be based on President Richard Nixon's economic outlook.

While he admits the latest trend is to cut back in defense spending, he said he isn't sure it's best achieved by deactivating posts like Two Rock. "There's no economy in transferring personnel from one post to another," he said.

Probably most directly affected by the base closing will be Two Rock School.

Principal-teacher Helen Putnam — who doubles in brass as Petaluma's mayor — reported 75 of the 126 students are tied to Two Rock. "Our district is quite large and we have a lot of children from ranches here, but you might say that Two Rock is our largest family," she said. "If Two Rock were to close it would be quite a loss and we have to take it a day at a time."

Two Rock School was formed when three one-room schools closed, long before the Army post was opened.

The blow will be felt less in Petaluma schools which have 59 students from the post.

The enrollment loss may be greeted with less than gloom at Petaluma School District offices since the federal government supplies less than half the amount needed to educate each child. It contributes a total of $2,702 for elementary students and $10,880 for high school students, according to Gemma Snell, finance officer.

Petaluma City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer is focusing his attention on assuring a new use will be found for Two Rock so that some income will continue to be received from it.

"It will definitely be an economic blow to the city," Meyer said. "Two Rock is civilian-living oriented. Many lived off base and many shopped here and in Santa Rosa."

Meyer and Police Chief Larry D. Higgins are leading a movement to have the state or federal government establish a law enforcement academy on the 876-acre site.

"We're building momentum just in case," Meyer said, explaining his lobbying before closure has been officially announced. "We've got to get the jump on other groups that might have other ideas," he said. The Cotati American Legion Post has suggested the post be converted to a national cemetery.

Governmental agencies and the Sixth Army will have the first opportunity to use the land, but if it is found to be of no further value to the government, it would be put on the market for sale or lease.

Pair Argue On Pool, One Man Is Stabbed

A San Anselmo man was taken to Marin General Hospital and an Oakland man was booked into Marin County Jail today following a stabbing at Forest Knolls Lodge about 1 a.m.

Edward Thompson III, 21, of 740 Fawn Drive, was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital with a stab wound in the abdomen.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon was James Robert Crockett, 36, of Oakland.

Crockett was treated at the hospital for a bruised forehead and dislocated finger.

Marin County sheriff's deputies said Thompson was stabbed after an argument developed over a pool game he had played with Crockett and two companions of Crockett.

After the stabbing Crockett and companions fled from the lodge in an automobile, but were chased by two men who had been at the lodge, James Santos of Forest Knolls and Raymond Robb of Fairfax.

Santos and Robb forced Crockett's car off the road, deputies said. Crockett's companions escaped on foot, but Crockett was held by Robb and Santos until deputies arrived.

Trustee Election Tomorrow

Voters in the Bolinas-Stinson School District will go to the polls tomorrow to elect a district trustee.

The special election has two candidates battling for the lone board seat. The polls, located at the Bolinas and Stinson Beach Schools, will be open from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The district has 925 registered voters and current board members have said they expect a large turnout in the election.

The seat became available when Erik Lund moved to Oregon late last year.

The two contenders for the vacant seat are Barbara G. Wilson, a housewife and student, and Michael E. Aitken, a Marin County sheriff's deputy.

A third announced candidate, Donna D. Fischer, withdrew from the race last week announcing that she would run in the April 20 election for the seat vacated by Warren Fairbanks Jan. 12. Fairbanks has moved to San Anselmo. He is a teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Discrimination Against Women Claimed In Marin Charges

Charges that Marin County discriminates against women in hiring and pay scales were filed today by the Marin County Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

Barbara Padilla, chairman of the group, said the complaint was filed with the California Fair Employment Practices Commission in San Francisco. She declared that Marin County's women employees get about $200 or $300 less then the men and are largely confined to lesser paying positions such as clerical work.

"Charges of discrimination are untrue," replied County Administrator Alan Bruce. He pointed out that in December, the NOW group had appeared before the Marin County Board of Supervisors with the same charges.

"At that time, the board took no action and referred to the county's personnel policy on nondiscrimination. We have not yet heard from FEPC but we will obviously cooperate with the FEPC in any investigation it wishes to make."

County personnel director Maren Rinne, herself a woman, told the board of supervisors that women performing the same work as men receive equal pay at all levels of county service.

"The apparent inequality of pay averages is largely due to the absence of female applicants in specialized skill areas, certain job conditions which are generally considered inappropriate for females, and the rarity of male clerical employees."

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell acknowledged that women average less pay because most of them hold clerical jobs. He said clerical jobs represent about one-fourth of all county positions and start at $419 per month. Mitchell estimated that the average clerical worker gets about $556 per month.

Zellerbach Has 4% Sales Gain

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Crown Zellerbach has announced that 1970 sales moved 4 per cent ahead of the prior year to a new record, but that net income declined by 22 per cent.

Sales for the year amounted to $955,288,000 vs. $919,282,000 in 1969, while net income of $41,905,000 contrasted with $53,963,000 earned the preceding year. On a per share basis, net income amounted to $1.77, compared with $2.29.

In the fourth quarter, sales were $247,107,000, compared with $237,294,000 last year. Net income was $11,741,000, or 50 cents a share, compared with $15,375,000, or 65 cents a share for the final period of 1969.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pifer know,

"The future looks better with a 5¼% Bonus Account at Bell Savings."

Pete and Diane have been married a little over a year now and they're interested in the future. That's why when they came to the Bell Savings office to open an account, our Savings Counselor, Mrs. Lila Haberman, sat down with them and discussed their present financial needs and their future goals.
Pete and Diane decided, "to open a Passbook Account now, and make systematic deposits each month, then when our balance reaches $500, the minimum for a Bonus Account, we'll convert over and get the extra .25% interest."
Mrs. Haberman reminded them that all accounts at Bell Savings receive daily interest, are completely insured up to $20,000 by an agency of the federal government, and that money deposited by the 10th of the month earns from the first.
Wouldn't you like to have your savings at the place where we say, and mean it, "At Bell Savings You Get 100% of Our Interest."

Two-Grand-Juries Plan Has Some Advantages

A San Francisco judge last week proposed a novel idea: that legislation be enacted permitting a county to appoint two grand juries, one for criminal matters and one for investigation of county and local governments.

Judge Francis McCarty suggested that the criminal grand jury should be selected by random choice from voter rolls, in the same manner as trial juries, and that the investigative grand jury would be made up of citizens nominated by superior court judges — the method used in present grand jury selection. Judge McCarty's idea makes sense in several ways.

THE FUNCTION of the grand jury in criminal cases is simply to decide whether evidence is sufficient to hold a person for trial. Since the jury in the trial itself is made up of persons selected at random, the same method would appear suitable for the jury for what is, in effect, the preliminary hearing. And since unanimous vote is not necessary to hold for trial, there would not be need for such searching examination of the jurors as in the trial itself, where one juror with preconceived ideas may "hang the jury."

Having two grand juries would allow the investigative one, chosen by the present method, to devote much more time to its inquiry into the operations of government.

Under the existing system, a grand jury often must devote so much time to hearing cases that it hasn't enough to do the job of watchdogging the government with which it is charged by law.

This is noticeably true in Marin County, where many San Quentin Prison cases, plus an increasing number of other criminal matters, are brought before the grand jury each year.

THERE ARE ABOUT 100 jurisdictions of government in Marin, each of which is subject to grand jury investigation. In practice, however, many of them have never been investigated at all. When the 1969 grand jury launched an investigation of the Sausalito School District, it set off a great hullabaloo — largely because such a thing was virtually unheard-of. Yet every school district should be investigated by a grand jury at frequent intervals, as should every water district, fire district, municipality, etc. — just to provide a checkup on its operations.

The grand jury's responsibility for examining the books and operations of the county and its various local jurisdictions but rarely involves a criminal prosecution. When it does, however, the grand jury is placed in the position of being both the investigative body and the one that votes the indictment a jury hearing its own charges.

IF SEPARATE grand juries heard criminal charges and investigated the governments, this would not occur. If the investigative body then developed a case which involved criminal conduct, it would present it to the criminal grand jury, through the district attorney just as other criminal matters are presented.

We hope Judge McCarty's suggestion is given serious consideration in the legislature

The New South Becomes Reality; Gone Is Decadent Sectionalism

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Hardly an item in the usual rush of news will make even an asterisk at the bottom of the page in the history book.

But events now coming into full focus will command a whole exciting and radiant chapter.

January, 1971, can be cited as the time when the long nightmare of racial discrimination, economic backwardness and one-party politics came so nearly to an end that it could be seen that an old era was vanishing and a new one was bursting forth for most of the South.

The evidence is compelling. It shows that on three crucial fronts an entire area of the nation has finally lifted itself out of the past and planted itself into the mainstream of the American dream. Here is the proof:

RACE — Seven governors have recently been installed in southern states who are firmly dedicated to wiping out the last vestiges of racial injustice through discriminatory law. Look at the roster — Governors James Carter of Georgia, John West of South Carolina, Robert Scott of North Carolina, Winfield Don of Tennessee, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, Linwood Holton of Virginia and Rubin Askew of Florida plus southern senators like Lawton Chiles of Florida and Ernest Hollings of South Carolina. This new breed of southern political leaders is not imposing a racial decision on the South; it is responding to a public opinion which has itself decided that the time for racial discrimination is over.

This is today's southern reality.

PROSPERITY In the decade of the '60s and it is continuing — the South is emerging as the most dynamically prospering section of the United States. Poverty is dropping more substantially, income is rising more rapidly, population is going up faster and every economic index in the whole of the South is more favorable than anywhere else in the nation.

This is today's southern reality

POLITICS — The ingredients of two-party politics are widely present in the South today. This, despite the fact that Democrats toppled some important Republicans. Democrat Dale Bumpers won in Arkansas because Arkansas Democrats, rejecting Orvel Faubus, decided they wanted the kind of progressive government Winthrop Rockefeller had been giving the state. Askew won in Florida, not because the Republican party was unpopular, but because the Republican governor was unpopular; the same in reverse for Governor Holton in Virginia.

One-party government is going to wane. This is today's southern reality.

HERE ARE the words with which Governor Carter of Georgia on the occasion of his inauguration as successor to Lester Maddox signaled the new mood of the South:

"I say to you quite frankly that the time for racial discrimination is over. Our people have already made this major and difficult decision. No poor, rural, weak or black person should ever have to bear the additional burden of being deprived of the opportunity of an education, a job or simple justice."

Listening to these words, Leroy Johnson, a black legislator from Atlanta, said that the new governor's remarks contain a boldness never before expressed by a southern governor.

But it did not take much boldness because Governor Carter was reflecting southern opinion as much as he was leading it. Governors West of South Carolina, Scott of North Carolina, Don of Tennessee, Bumpers of Arkansas, Holton of Virginia and Askew of Florida are saying the same thing.

Only Gov. George Wallace of Alabama remains to use the old rhetoric to defend racial discrimination, and it is evident that he will have a narrow southern base if he decides to try for the presidency again.

No presidential nominee will need a "southern strategy" in 1972 — just a national strategy of treating every section of the nation alike.

VISTA Volunteer Cites Deficiencies

I was born and raised in San Rafael and graduated from the University of San Francisco last May. I am now serving as a VISTA volunteer in Stilwell, Okla. Since many people have asked me what VISTA is like, whether or not I think it is worthwhile and other similar questions I thought that it would be beneficial if I wrote and told you something about it.

First of all, let it be understood that I have personally gained a great deal from my experiences during my first six months here. Secondly, that I believe VISTA can help poor people. However, there are many weaknesses that hamper its achievement of this goal.

I will focus on two weaknesses that I feel are very important. First, the volunteers get little support from the administrators of the program. On both the regional and national levels administrators seem to be acting as policemen to make sure those "little radicals" don't do anything to offend anyone.

An example of this lack of support may help to clarify my point. Recently three volunteers on a project in Idabel, Okla., were involved in a confrontation with the white community. False accusations were made about them by prominent white citizens. The volunteers were removed from the project at the request of former Gov Dewey Bartlett. No statement was issued in their defense either by the regional or national office of VISTA . . .

Does this mean that whenever volunteers upset the status quo in the communities where they work they will be removed undefende? How can we do anything about poverty without upsetting the status quo which perpetuates it? If we are not allowed to challenge a local landlord's unjust rent policies because he happens to be Democratic party chairman in the county and might cause trouble, how can we ever help the poor people whom he victimizes? Do the regional and national offices of VISTA really want us to help poor people? Does Mr. Nixon?

A second weakness which I feel exists in the VISTA organization is an inadequate training program. After training I was totally unprepared to work with the Cherokees here in Stilwell. . .

On other topics such as the poor white culture and work in rural areas we were equally unprepared . . .

Will Assessment Change Cut Rate?

To countless taxpayers in marin, the long-ago promised beautiful balloon of "property tax relief" turned out to be a program of ballooned re-assessments on properties along with yearly increases in the property tax rates. "Relief" was mercilessly gobbled up by the various taxing agencies of Marin and all the while they gobbled, they asked for yet more funds. It is unlikely 1971-72 will signal any reversal of the invidious trend if this year is allowed to go unchallenged by Marin taxpayers. The state law requires counties to assess property at 25 per cent of its full cash value by 1971-72 fiscal year. Spokesmen for Marin Assessor Bert Broemmel said last week that assessments on 75,000 parcels will be increased by 8.7 per cent.

The question to ask our five supervisors is if 75,000 parcels are increased by 8.7 per cent will property tax bills across the county reflect proportionately reduced tax rates? Mill Valley is served by Supervisor Michael J. Wornum, and appropriately I address that question to him.

'Saving' Shoreline In Strawberry

Reporter Paul Peterzell's Jan. 25 column "Golden Gate Notebook" is inaccurate in at least two material respects insofar as it relates to Strawberry Cove. On behalf of Save Strawberry Cove Committee, I would like to offer the following:

1. Save Strawberry Cove Committee is not involved in any litigation. The lawsuit referred to was brought by the Strawberry Recreation District.

2 The California Supreme Court held last spring that there is an implied dedication of land to the public when the public uses the land for more than five years without objection from the owner. Landowners are much more likely to exclude the public from their property in response to a court decision establishing California law than they are in response to suits now being filed under that law To state otherwise is absurd

Prices For Government Cars Skyrocket; You Know Who Pays

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

More bad news for taxpayers has come from the giants of the automobile industry

They have hiked by 50 per cent the cost of automobiles they sell to governments. And you know who will pay for this modest price increase.

The increase came after the big three manufacturers stopped subsidizing automobiles they sell to government. The high cost of their new labor contracts apparently spelled the end of the old subsidies.

MANY GOVERNMENT agencies had figured on only a normal 5 per cent price hike this fiscal year, so their fleet purchases have had to be cut sharply to match their budgets with the new prices. This will delay many purchases until next fiscal year, so taxpayers then will face the prospect of not only buying one and one-half years of new vehicles in one year, but at greatly increased prices

American Motors, judging from what happened at the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, eagerly will fill the void with somewhat lower prices than those offered by the Big Three. But district officials unhappily noted that for $2,133, plus sales tax, they were getting only a compact.

Last year, they got a full size sedan for about the same price, they said.

In the case of an air-pollution control district, of course, it would be particularly appropriate to buy smaller vehicles since they emit less pollution

Public servants, however, can be expected to exercise their royal rights to drive the same fat cars being driven by the ordinary taxpayer. But Mr. Ordinary unfortunately, has to pay for both.

WE WERE WRONG last week when we said in this column that the Save Strawberry Cove Committee had filed a court claim that the public had a right to access across a cove property slated for development. The suit was filed by the Strawberry Recreation District, not by the committee.

Committee officials, however, have proclaimed their emphatic support of the suit.

A countersuit by the developer, of course, contends that the committee and three district directors conspired to cloud the title to the property by filing the suit.

SEN. PETER H. Behr, R-San Rafael, got a rude surprise last week when he was told that his predecessor's top staff man had become a consultant to the Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee.

Joe F. Jimenez Jr. was area coordinator for former Sen. John F. McCarthy in the past two years. McCarthy opposed Behr's election, and Behr reportedly brushed aside a later suggestion that he hire Jimenez. These points, given Behr's inevitably tough reapportionment problem next year, could aggravate Behr's delicate standing.

Widening Of Air War Disillusions The People

(By John S. Knight
in Detroit Free Press)

One reason why the young have so little faith in our political leaders is found in the lack of good faith and even the hypocrisy of their actions.

A case in point: When President Nixon decided to send American forces into Cambodia last spring, he said his action was not "an invasion of Cambodia" but a necessary move designed to eliminate a major communist staging and communications area.

At the time, I observed that "despite all reassurances, the Nixon policy is fraught with great peril and can only widen the war."

This pessimistic view was not well received in the public euphoria which followed the President's withdrawal from the land of the white parasol on schedule and in accordance with his promise. To most Americans, we had achieved a "victory" even though COSVN, the major enemy headquarters was never found.

WE COME now to the increasing U.S. air involvement in both Cambodia and Laos. American air strikes, helicopter gunships and logistical support are escalating the war in a vain effort to bolster the weak Lon Nol government and save Phnom Penh, the country's capital Official rationalization for this concerted effort is based upon the President's statement last June that "we will conduct air interdiction missions" against North Vietnamese bases and supply lines. Yet in fact, we are now using air power to support troop action in Cambodia by the South Vietnamese.

At a recent press conference, Defense Secretary Laird said that the United States plans to use air power in any way that is required to "reduce American casualties and protect American lives." The secretary continued: "We will use air power . . . and as long as I am serving in this job I will recommend that we use air power . . . in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia."

OBVIOUSLY this is a change of policy since last June when the President stated categorically that the United States would not provide air or ligistic support for the South Vietnamese forces operating in Cambodia. When questioned on this point, Secretary Laird replied: "I don't want to get into semantics."

So there you have it; semantics and all. What are the people, young and old, to believe?

Sale Of Police Records Shows Data Bank Peril

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

NEW YORK — It appeared the local sport of throwing verbal garbage at the police had reached peak popularity during the patrolmen's recent wildcat strike. Not so. Now it is even more inspired, following indictment of four cops from sensitive positions for selling confidential police records.

The assertion that eight particular detective agencies and two airlines chose to deal under cover with policemen and other officials here in New York does not make it an exclusively east-of-the-Hudson phenomenon which could not happen anywhere else. It could, has and will.

It is fueled by the nationwide growth of data collection, often of the most injurious potential, and its mishandling by those officially entrusted to guard and use it. This governmental side of the threat to privacy was exemplified by the Army's silly but dangerous building of dossiers on politicians and others arbitrarily selected by God knows who. The civilian side, involving credit agencies, junk mail distributors and the like, is at least as omnipresent.

THE CASE that just broke here is one in which the government and private efforts found common cause — the cause so often sanctified because it can be labeled "business." The airlines and detective agencies wanted police records of prospective employees. Instead of doing their own investigating, they allegedly took the lazy route of bribing policemen to provide the information from confidential files. If nobody gets caught, everybody makes a buck.

It is not so cut-and-dried as it may sound. There are shades of ambiguity in the field. Theoretically, police records are public information. In some states, businesses can buy from the police just the sort of data involved in the case at issue. They should not be able to, though. And in New York they cannot.

POLICE PERFORM the task, either very expensive or impossible for a private firm, of pulling together incriminating or otherwise damaging information from across local, state and even national borders. To pass out that "rap sheet" casually to anyone who asks for it or is willing to pay for it, out of whatever motive, is not the same thing as merely opening the records of public court proceedings.

For the past year, law officials in New York State have been able to obtain records from the New York State Identification and Intelligence System computer within two to three hours, compared to a period of days in the past. This speeds the bonding process and cuts down on cases of mistaken identity.

In addition, first offenders found not guilty are able to purge their records from that bank, and anyone suspecting that wrong data is held there is able to come in and offer corrections to his own file.

However, in New York State alone there are some 3,600 police departments, district attorneys, courts, justices of the peace, probation, parole and correction agencies with access to the NYSIIS collection. Multiply that to account for all 50 states, and by the number of individuals in each agency, and you have the potential for incidents like the present bribery case becoming a new feature of the American way of life.

That is why tight federal standards for use and security of such data collections are demanded.

Shootout Aftermath Spins Off Fund-Consuming By-Products

Costs emanating from the shootout and explosion keep multiplying from unforeseen by-products.

Take the deluge of fan mail for Miss Angela Davis. "I'd swear she got 100,000 letters and post cards this past week alone," gasped one harried mail carrier. "We're putting in more overtime than during the Christmas rush."

And imagine the man-hours spent in the sheriff's office, which censors incoming mail to the county jail. If you flipped through at the rate of one letter per minute for 10 hours straight each day, it would take almost six months for one man to handle 100,000 letters.

We wouldn't be surprised if they came in one of these days with a budget request for a special department just to handle fan mail for the county jail.

And did you know that three courtrooms are tied up for each of Miss Davis' court appearances? In addition to the actual courtroom in use, the courts on both sides are kept vacant and locked up for security reasons.

THESE METAL detectors that stand guard at each entrance to the Civic Center are surprisingly sensitive. So much so that at first, we suspected the gadgets were subject to fits of temperament.

The sensors are adjusted so that a person's normal complement of keys and small change won't set off the buzzer. So when we went through in the morning, everything was fine. But when we came back in after lunch, the same metal detector buzzed us to a stop.

The spinach we had for lunch couldn't have contained that much iron. No, it wasn't spinach, the guard assured us. Just a new pack of cigarettes with too much tinfoil for the sensor to digest.

THESE HOUSING surveys required by federal and state bureaucracies are getting more confusing by the day.

Last year the county published a 178-page countywide housing report needed to qualify for federal housing funds.

Now comes the state, which says the federal report won't do. If the county wants state funds, such as money to buy McNear Beach, we'll have to come up with another housing report, pinpointing deteriorated housing and areas that need improvement.

Each time, the county must go through the motions, like trained animals ordered to sit up, shake hands, or jump through hoops before the goodies are handed out.

Former Planning Director Paul Zucker hit the nail on the head when he suggested that some of the reports were meaningless exercises in paper work just to satisfy bureaucratic requirements.

Don't Let Low Figure On Price Index Fool You

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When the government issues its cost of living index for January it may look at first glance as if inflation has been finally defeated.

The January index, which will come out late in February, probably will be a little over 119 compared to the 137.8 reported for November.

DON'T CELEBRATE. It's a matter of numbers. Prices are still going up.

The government, as it does every 10 years or so, is updating the base for its closely watched business statistics. Most economic indicators now are based on a 1¼57-59 average The new base will be 1967.

The November consumer price index meant it cost $13.78 during the month to buy the same variety of goods and services that could have been obtained for $11.63 in 1967 and $10 in the period from 1957 to 1959.

When the November index is recomputed to show the 1967 base, the figure is 118.5, meaning it cost $11.85 to buy the same goods that cost $10 in 1967.

OTHER KEY government reports will also be revised to show the new base.

The Federal Reserve's industrial production index will switch to the new base in March or April. This index, which measures the output of the nation's factories and mines, was 163.9 in December. If recomputed to show the 1967 base, it would drop to 103.7.

The wholesale price index, 117.8 in December, will be 111.0 on the new scale.

Government statisticians say the change is intended to keep the figures up to date. The base traditionally is revised every 10 years or so. This time, the government is abandoning its previous practice of using a three-year period as the base. The new base will be for a single year.

PREVIOUS CHANGES in base periods often were greeted by complaints that they were a cosmetic job intended to mask the effects of inflation. Critics argue that 118.5 seems like less inflation than 137.8.

Most individuals, however, are more concerned with changes in the index than the actual number. A 0.5 per cent monthly increase is a 0.5 per cent monthly increase regardless of the base.

A closer look at the figures tells something about the course of the economy since the mid-1960s.

Consumer prices rose by 16.3 per cent in the more than eight years from the 1957-59 base until 1967. The increase was 18.5 per cent in less than three years from 1967 to November 1970.

Wholesale prices rose 6.1 per cent from 1957-59 to 1967 and by 11 per cent from 1967 through 1970.

The industrial production index —a closely watched barometer of overall economic activity —increased 58.1 per cent from 1957-59 to 1967 and by 3.7 per cent from 1967 to December 1970.

McGovern Asks FBI Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An investigation of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's "persecution" of an agent for writing a letter on the strengths and weaknesses of the FBI has been asked by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

Sunday McGovern released a letter he wrote to Attorney General John N. Mitchell asking for a probe of the firing of agent John F. Shaw. McGovern said Hoover had effectively prevented Shaw from finding new employment.

McGovern said Shaw wrote the letter to a professor at the City University of New York's John Jay College of Criminal Justice, where Shaw had taken a course. The letter was in some respects critical of the FBI.

Bannerman served with the federal government for more than 30 years, including duty in World War II as a Navy officer. He came to the University of California in 1968.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

In 1790 the U.S. Supreme Court held its first session, convening in New York City.

In 1898 Dr. Truman Martin of Buffalo, N.Y., was issued the first insurance policy covering an automobile driver.

In 1968 Republican Richard Nixon formally announced his candidacy for the U.S. presidency. He defeated Hubert Humphrey in November and was sworn in as the 37th president on Jan. 20, 1969.

Play For The Extra Tricks Pays At Rubber Bridge Game

The rubber bridge player usually disregards overtricks as a waste of time, but this is an exaggerated attitude. If you win a rubber by 250 points, you usually count it as a 300-point victory; 350 points is worth 400; and so on. On the last hand of a rubber, an overtrick may be worth an extra hundred points, and this may be worth struggling for even if you are just playing for peanuts or marbles. An extra hundred marbles may bejust what you need if your landlord happens to like marbles.

RUBBER GAME

When today's hand was played in a recent rubber bridge game, South let the opening heart lead ride around to the queen. There were now nine top tricks: two hearts, six diamonds and a club. But the score happened to be exactly tied at the time, and declarer could win an extra hundred points by winning 11 tricks instead of just nine. One overtrick would be meaningless, but two overtricks were worth fighting for.

South led a low spade and tried a finesse with dummy's jack. East might have fared better by refusing the trick, but he actually won with the ace of spades and returned a heart to dummy's ace.

IMPORTANT PLAY

South now made the important play of cashing dummy's ace of clubs. Declarer then ran all of the diamonds, coming down to 10-4 of spades and the nine of hearts in the South hand. Dummy kept K-6 of spades and the jack of clubs.

The early play of the hearts had marked West with a five-card suit, and West therefore found it impossible to conceal what he was saving as his last three cards. He actually kept Q-9 of spades and the king of hearts in the hope that the ten of spades, was in his partner's hand or unguarded in the South hand.

SOUTH'S HEART

South thereupon led a heart, and West had to lead away from the queen of spades, giving South two spade tricks and a rubber of 660 points.

It would have been very foolish for South to bid five no-trump, but it was very useful to make five no-trump instead of just three.

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. You have 12 points in high cards, two points for the singleton and a solid six-card suit. This is more than enough for an opening bid.

Tamalpais Board To Tackle Budget Plan

The Tamalpais High School District board, meeting today at 8 p.m. at Redwood High School faculty lounge, will begin fiscal 1971-72 budget planning.

Budget projections show the district's 1971-72 budget will require a $600,000 hike in property tax revenues.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Atherosclerosis Thickens Arteries, Spurs Heart Deaths

Is atherosclerosis the same as arteriosclerosis? Yes, in that atherosclerosis is a form of arteriosclerosis that mainly involves the walls of medium and large arteries. In addition, there is an accumulation of fatty materials (lipids), including cholesterol, in the linings of these vessels. The thicker the walls become, the more difficult the flow of blood. When the flow is curtailed from 80 to 90 per cent, symptoms of poor circulation develop in the involved organ.

THE BLOOD vessels bringing nourishment to the heart (coronary), brain (cerebral), kidneys (renal), and legs (peripheral) are most likely to become atherosclerotic. This thickening is bound to occur as we grow older but is a tragedy when the vessels plug up prematurely — before age 65. Since the coronary arteries are more susceptible than any other vessel to atherosclerosis, heart attacks are the most common of all vascular conditions.

It is estimated that more than 3 million persons in the United States have coronary heart disease; another 2.5 million are suspected of having it. Annually more than 600,000 die of this condition and another 500,000 from atherosclerosis of other major blood vessels. Approximately 156,000 of the coronary deaths occur in persons under 65.

PREMATURE attacks are especially serious when they take place before age 60. Twenty-five per cent of the victims die within three hours of their first attack. Another 10 per cent succumb within the first weeks. The outcome is much better when the attack occurs after age 60. This is the main reason why the American Heart Association is working so diligently on preventing atherosclerosis or at least delaying its progression.

The cause of hardening of the arteries is not known but we do know that people who develop the disease prematurely have numerous so-called risk factors that make them highly susceptible to coronary artery disease.

LATE MATURATION

L. C. A. writes: When I was in the army the physician told me I was the late maturing type. Please explain.

REPLY

Late maturation is a term used to d e s i g n a t e sexual growth, which develops earlier in some individuals than in others. Hormonal treatment may be needed if at your age the deficiency still exists.

HEREDITY AND HARELIP

D. H. writes: Is harelip a hereditary defect?

REPLY

Some cases seem to be on a hereditary basis. The majority, however, probably represent a developmental defect in which the two sides of the upper jaw fail to come together prior to birth.

COFFEE FOR CHILDREN

Mrs. P. K. writes: My husband gives our 12-year-old son coffee. I claim he is too young for this beverage. Do you agree?

REPLY

Yes. Furthermore, there is no nutritional value in coffee and a lad of 12 does not need a stimulant.

SHOWER IS CLEANER

A reader writes: Is it better to shower or bathe?

REPLY

This is a moot question, but in my opinion, a shower is cleaner and more sanitary. The water is rather dirty at the end of a bath. Need I say more?

'Shoddy Bookkeeping' Cited In Lost Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than $144 million in federal and state poverty funds turned over to various agencies across the nation in the past three years are missing, Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., said.

Murphy said auditors for the General Accounting Office, the congressional watchdog organization which investigated the situation at his request, uncovered the loss of funds and told him the problem was caused by shoddy bookkeeping practices and not fraud.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The treasury department has formally agreed to hold public hearings on a $2.6 billion tax break for industry under threat of a Ralph Nader law suit.

But a treasury spokesman said that the tax decision was "firm and decided" despite any findings at the hearings. The spokesman said the hearings would determine only the "details" of regulations to implement the changes.

TV REVIEW

Stagestruck Idiot Doing A Road Show

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)--"I guess I'm just stagestruck," said Buddy Ebsen on the telephone from the freezing midwest, where he is touring in a play during a respite from his CBS-TV series, "The Beverly Hillbillies."

A highly respected veteran trouper, whether in song-and-dance numbers or film and stage acting, Ebsen offers another example of his dramatic ability Tuesday night in a rerun of last season's best video play, "The Andersonville Trial," on the non-commercial Public Broadcast Service.

Ebsen joined with such other video names as Richard Basehart, William Shatner, Jack Cassidy and Cameron Mitchell to help get producer Lewis Freedman's non-commercial "Hollywood Television Theatre" off to a much-acclaimed start with "The Andersonville Trial."

But what is the rich, famous star of "The Beverly Hillbillies" doing out on the road in midwinter when he could be sunning himself back home in Southern California? And why, in particular, is he touring in the play "The Apple of His Eye"?

"Well," said Ebsen, "this tour is something I've always wanted to do. I've done vaudeville and musicals before, and "The Male Animal" in a few cities. But I've never toured in a straight play in all these towns we're doing. It's 12 weeks—cities like Detroit, St. Paul, St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, New Haven, Baltimore, Philadelphia.

"Of course my wife thinks I'm an idiot for making this tour. Yes, she's told me about all the hot weather back home. So I guess I'm an idiot—a stagestruck idiot.

"As for 'The Apple of His Eye,' Freedman put this play into my hands after three days of rehearsal of 'Andersonville.' He said he wants to do it for 'Hollywood Television Theatre,' and he asked me, 'Why don't you do it?' So I read it and liked it and got excited about it —Walter Huston did it, you know, about 25 years ago.

"So I said I'd like to try it out, find out where the values are, and we did it in Wichita last August, and now we're on the road with it. Lewis is coming out to see the play somewhere along the line. You know, he's trying to form a sort of national American theatre on television—doing top American plays. And this one's a great example of Americana."

Council To Eye Fund Request

Improvements to the sewage disposal plant and a request for a $2 million in federal aid to finance the improvements will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The council will also consider authorizing a $1,000 payment to the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board for reconsideration of the waste discharge into the Petaluma River.

In other action, the council will consider funding for a pedestrian overcrossing of Highway 101 at East Washington Street. The state division of highways has said an overcrossing for the safety of Kenilworth Junior High School students could be completed by September, but that the city must pay one-half the costs.

Bolinas Panel To Meet On Projects

Improvement of parking in dowtown Bolinas and removal of the Bolinas library to a new location are among projects sought by the Bolinas Community Incorporated.

Directors of Bolinas Community Inc., headed by President Craig A. Hansen, met Friday night and decided to hold another meeting in about two weeks to discuss these two projects.

The directors want the county to take traffic pressure off Terrace Avenue by extending Spring Road from Park Street to the Mesa.

The directors also proposed that the Bolinas library, located next to Scowley's restaurant, be moved to space in the old firehouse in front of the Bolinas Community Center.

The controversial raft-boom, which a group of Bolinas volunteers want to string across the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon, came up for discussion, but directors reached no decision. County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost warned that the huge raft boom would be a menace because any section breaking loose could damage pilings and homes on the Bolinas waterfront.

Riders Locked In Subway Station

LONDON (UPI) —More than a dozen passengers were trapped in a London subway station for more than an hour early today when the staff locked up and went home.

When the passengers got off the last train on the Bakerloo line at the Maida Vale station in Paddington, they found the exits blocked by steel shutters and the station deserted.

Police were called and they in turn contacted London subway officials.

A spokesman for London Transport said it would investigate the incident.

London's subway service shuts down from about midnight to 5 a.m.

Research at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine showed that hearts isolated from physically active rats proved to be stronger and pump better than those from their more sedentary brethren.

Britons Taking D-Day In Stride

LONDON (UPI) —Britain's "D-Day" —when it changes to decimalized currency —is two weeks away and the government agency coordinating the switch says everything is going smoothly.

"Our latest survey has shown that since November there has been an incredible improvement in the extent to which people are familiar with the decimal equivalents," a Decimal Currency Board spokesman said Sunday.

On Feb. 15, the pound — worth $2.40 — officially will become worth 100 new pence. It presently is made up of 20 shillings, with each shilling containing 12 pence.

The spokesman said latest market research had shown that 73 per cent of the public had no fears about decimilization. He said the figure in November was 66 per cent.

U.S.-Ecuador Talks Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The foreign ministers of the Organization of American States have recommended that the United States and Ecuador get together to settle their "tuna war"—rather than have the OAS settle it for them.

The suggestion came Sunday at the end of a special OAS meeting on the fishing rights dispute. Since Jan. 11 the Ecuadorian Navy has seized 17 U.S. tuna boats, charging they violated that country's 200-mile territorial limit.

The United States contends the limit extends only 12 miles.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Lucky Breweries introduces a recycling program for bottles and cans.

We think protecting the environment is everyone's job. So we've done something about it. We've come up with a plan to recycle all of our Lucky labeled beer bottles and cans, including our throwaway bottles. And here's how it works.

We'll pay 25¢ for every case of 24 empty Lucky bottles, or 1¢ apiece, and 12¢ for each case of 24 empty Lucky cans, or 1/2¢ apiece. Just return your Lucky empties to the brewery or to any of the Lucky wholesale distributors listed below. Only Lucky labeled beer bottles and cans will be accepted. (This means somebody can make a lot of money out of what people are now throwing away.)

Or if you wish, you can help support the work of Ecology Centers by donating your empty Lucky bottles and cans. Just return them to the Centers listed below and we'll pay the Centers for the empties when they are returned to us.

This program is the first of its kind sponsored by a brewery anywhere. We figure that this way we can all do our part to keep the beautiful outdoors beautiful. After all, it really is Lucky when you live in the West.

For more details call 415/368-3000 or for organizations interested in group collections, call 415/467-2211.

ARCHER IN GROOVE

'It Feels Great To Win Again'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—George Archer is a tournament champion again, and he makes no bones about how it feels.

"It feels good. what more can I say than that," said the man who Sunday won the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament with a tourney record score of 16 under par 272.

"For a time there last year, I was beginning to hope my doubts," said the lanky, horseless cowboy from Gilroy, Calif.

Archer's last victory before San Diego was in the 1969 Masters. He suffered with elbow miseries last year but played on anyway, one week taking cortisone, another some other pain killer, and so on.

"It made no difference," Archer said. The elbow still hurt, and when your left elbow hurts you are in trouble, but I remained optimistic."

Archer dropped off the tour in December and didn't come back to play until mid-January for the Crosby Clambake at Pebble Beach.

"I decided the only thing that was going to help my elbow was complete rest," Archer said. "So for a month I didn't even lift a club. Then, about the beginning of January, I started hitting about 100 to 200 drives a day and I also did some morning exercises such as situps, pushups and leg lifts."

In the Crosby, Archer said his elbow bothered him "just a little bit." He wound up in tie for 11th but said "I played pretty good golf."

A week ago at the Phoenix Open, Archer improved to seventh and said "If I made a few more putts I could have been right there."

In the San Diego, he made all the putts he hadn't last year. It came as no surprise to him that he won the tourney, but his putting wasn't the only reason.

"I played very well, for me, with my irons," he said. "There were very few holes when I didn't have a chance for a birdie."

Sunday, Archer made seven birds in all for a 34-31—65, seven under par. He chipped in from 25 feet for his first bird on the seventh and tapped in from three feet for his second on nine. On the backside, he was murder on the field, sinking birdie putts of 18 feet, six feet and five feet on the 10th, 11th and 12th.

That pushed Archer into the lead and he never looked back. Just to make sure, he sank a birdie putt of four feet on 14 and another of 18 feet on 17 to close it out.

Young Dave Chelberger picked up the biggest check of his pro career —one for $17,100 compared to Archer's $30,000 — for finishing second, three strokes farther back at 275, 13 under.

Jack Nicklaus closed with a six under 66 to finish in a tie for third place with Phoenix Open champ Miller Barber, Paul Harney and Bob Stone. Echelberger shot a 68 in the final round, Harney had 69 and Barber and Stone had 70s.

John Schlee and Dick Lotz finished at nine under 278, while Frank Beard, Dow Finsterwald, Art Wall and Lee Elder were at 279. The 280 group, eight under par, was made up of Bobby Nichols, Gene Littler, Lionel Hebert, Charles Coody, Terry Dill and Joel Goldstrand.

REDWOOD VS. TAM

To Settle The Issue

The confusion that began last Tuesday night at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, when a bomb scare combined with a large and irascible crowd forced postponement of the Tam-Redwood basketball game, has grown by now to the point that no one is really sure what the consequences of the incident will be.

Tam principal Ray Bell and basketball coach Bernie Schneider said today they understand the school's gym, which seats 600, will be condemned by the state fire marshall for use regarding varsity games. However Mill Valley fire marshall Al Marovich, who acts under the authority of the state marshall, told the Independent-Journal today that no such action would be taken.

One concrete change which has resulted is that the completion of the game tomorrow afternoon will be played at College of Marin in Kentfield. It will begin at 3:30 p.m., with Redwood leading, 30-27, four minutes and six seconds left in the third period, and Tam's John Earl Huff on the free throw line.

Marovich, who will advise the Tam School District board today of his decision regarding the use of the gym, denied this morning that he will order a halt to varsity games. "If they feel they can fit the people in, and seat them safely, why it's all right," he said. "I'm not ordering them not to have games there, but the way it was the other night, we can't have the same thing occur."

"I understand the building is condemned for varsity use, "Bell said this morning. "We're strongly discouraging using it anyway," he added, explaining that, when crowd numbers reach capacity, "you've got a fire problem and a security problem."

Schneider too is under the impression no more games will be permitted to be played in the old gym.

"It's mainly the fact that there is supposed to be a 600 seating capacity and that's supposed to include everybody — teams, song girls and fans," he said.

Schneider and Bell both indicated that Tam's basketball team will play the remainder of their 1971 home games at College of Marin, although, according to Schneider, "for Friday night games, if either Redwood or Drake (the other schools in the Tam district), are away, we may request the use of their gyms."

GRUELING DAYTONA

Porsche Is Durable

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The obviously more durable Porsche is now two up on the faster Ferrari.

Porsche, which won the world manufacturers' championship last year by capturing seven of the 10 long distance races that counted toward that title, ran 1-2 in the first race of 1971, at Buenos Aires, Jan. 10—then made it two straight Sunday in the 24 Hours of Daytona.

Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez, who drove a similar car to victory here last year, brought his Porsche 917 from behind with 44 minutes left to run Sunday after the car had been delayed for more than an hour and a half by gear trouble and beat the leading Ferrari by a full lap.

It was a different race from that which the John Wyer Porsche team won at Daytona last year. Then, the Porsche experienced no trouble worth talking about and finished 48 laps, 183 miles, ahead of Ferrari's best.

However, it looked like the same sort of race until three and a half hours from the end. At that point, Rodriguez and codriver Jackie Oliver of England were crusiing along 44 laps, 168 miles, ahead of the fragile Ferraris, which were making frequent pit stops.

Twenty hours, 34 minutes into the race, near disaster struck.

"I shifted into top when I went around the back and when I tried to shift back to third, it stayed in top," Oliver explained. "Even though we had a huge lead at that time, there was no way we could run the last three and a half hours in top gear. We had to get it fixed."

If the Wyer team, which earlier lost its other entry because of a blown engine, could have just changed transmissions, the problem would have been simplified.

But race rules forbid this and they had to rebuild the gear box instead.

"Waiting . . waiting, it's worse than driving," grumbled Oliver as he paced impatiently around the pit area. "How would you feel after coming this far?"

"We thought it would be easy, like last year," said Rodriguez. "But once we had that problem, we had to work very hard. I was disappointed while waiting, but we fixed the car just in time."

While the Porsche was being repaired, a North American Racing Team Ferrari 512 driven by Ronnie Bucknum of Playa-Del-Ray, Calif., and Tony Adamowicz of Wilton, Conn., forged into the lead with roughly two hours left.

Fortunately, so far as Porsche was concerned, that Ferrari was less than three laps ahead when the 917 got back on the track.

Everyone agreed that the fastest car in the 48-car starting field was a Ferrari 512 entered by Roger Penske and co-driven by 1969 champion Mark Donohoe of Media, Pa. and David Hobbs of England.

But that car, which finished third, 14 laps (53 miles) behind the winner, ran into one problem after another after taking the early lead. It was in the pit 33 times for a total of more than two and a half hours.

The Penske Ferrari fell far behind after the first couple of hours when it developed alternator trouble and when it became involved in a fiery three-car crash at midnight, the Porsche remained unchallenged until nearly 12 hours later when it suffered its only crisis.

DeAnza Edges Marin '5'

The College of Marin Tars lost to De Anza J.C. of Cupertino Saturday night in a battle for first place in the Camino Norte Conference, 62-60.

The loss was only the third of the season for the Tars, who are 19-3 overall, but was their second in league play, and dropped them into third place behind undefeated De Anza, and once beaten Contra Costa.

Roosevelt Green, with 19 points for the game led a second half surge after the Tars had trailed by four at halftime, but it wasn't enough. Joe Smith, who has been averaging almost 20 per game, was held to 15.

He's Representing Five Ohio Staters

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Contract negotiations for five of the 13 Ohio State football players drafted by pro teams last week will be in the hands of Tony Razzano.

Razzano, 44, founder of United Pro Athletes, will represent linebacker Jack Tatum, defensive back Tim Anderson, running backs John Brockington and Leo Hayden and tight end Jan White. All but White went in the first round.

Razzano will handle the negotiations, endorsements, personal appearances and investments of the five and he's sold on their chances.

Tatum was drafted by the Oakland R3iders, Anderson by San Francisco, Brockington by Green Bay, Hayden by Minnesota and White by Buffalo.

One of the surprises, to nearly everyone but Razzano, was the drafting of Anderson in the first round.

"From a physical standpoint, Anderson is the strongest defensive back I've ever seen," he said. "He hasn't even begun to reach his potential. I have never seen such physical strength in one boy."

Exec, Six Players To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI)—George Weiss, one of baseball's most successful executives, and six former stars, including Rube Marquard, were elected to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., Sunday in a surprising vote by the veterans committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Named along with Weiss and Marquard were Chick Hafey, Harry Hooper, Joe Kelley, Jake Beckley and Dave Bancroft, bringing to 120 the men who have been elected to the shrine.

The large number of new immortals elected came as a surprise but a spokesman for the 12-man special committee said that it had nothing to do with the failure of the Association to elect anyone in its balloting two weeks ago. A player needed 75 per cent of the votes cast by the whole Association in order to be elected in that balloting.

Yogi Berra, Early Wynn and Ralph Kiner came closest in the voting by the whole Association but all fell short of the required 75 per cent.

Weiss, who retired as president of the New York Mets in 1966 after a career that started in 1917 with the New Haven Colonials semi-pro club, earned fame as the director of the New York Yankees' fertile farm system. He was instrumental in producing 19 pennant winners and 15 world champions with the Yankees.

The farm system was the backbone of the Yankee dynasty and Weiss eventually was rewarded by being appointed general manager of the club. He, the late Branch Rickey and Larry MacPhail were the most successful executives of their era.

Marquard, a 6-foot, 3-inch left-hander, set the major league record of 19 consecutive victories in one season while pitching for the New York Giants in 1912. Labeled an $11,000 "lemon" after being purchased for that amount from the Indianapolis club in 1908, Marquard strung together won-lost records of 24-7, 26-11 and 23-10 in 1911-12-13 and finished his career with a lifetime mark of 201-117. He appeared in five World Series with the Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers and had a 2-5 mark.

Hafey, who played for the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, had a .317 lifetihe average. He was the National League batting champion with a .349 average in 1931 and from 1927 through 1930 had averages of .320, .337, .338 and .336. He had a .205 average in four World Series with the Cardinals.

Hooper, a member of the famous outfield of Speaker-Hooper-Lewis, was one of the game's greatest defensive outfielders and had a .281 career average between 1909 and 1925. As a Red Sox outfielder, he also was instrumental in convincing Ed Barrow to switch Babe Ruth from a pitcher into an outfielder.

Kelly, who played for Baltimore, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Boston from 1892 through 1908, had a .321 lifetime average. An outfielder, who occasionally played first base, Kelley had nine hits, including a triple and four doubles, in nine times at bat during a doubleheader in 1894.

Beckley, who played with Pittsburgh, the Giants, Cincinnati and the Cardinals from 1888 through 1907, had a .309 lifetime batting average and holds the National League record of 22,438 putouts. Bancroft, who played for Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn and Boston from 1915 through 1930, had a .279 average and was regarded as one of the game's greatest defensive shortstops.

The six players will be inducted into the Hall next August.

Honolulu Trip For Winners

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—Trips to Honolulu will be the prizes today when more than 150 golfers battle for qualifying spots in the $200,000 Hawaiian Open over the Ontario National Golf Club course.

For those who fail to qualify for the Hawaiian stop on the PGA tour, there will be a satellite tournament here, the $25,000 United Air Lines Ontario Open Feb. 4-7, the same dates as the Hawaiian Open.

The number of places open in the Hawaiian Open will depend on how many exempt pros decide to play in that tournament. The exempt pros have until 6 p.m. today to indicate their intentions.

Seals Drubbed By North Stars

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Road games continued to hamper the California Golden Seals' bid to move out of the National Hockey League cellar.

For the 23rd time in 28 away games Sunday, the Seals fell before their hosts. It was the Minnesota North Stars' turn as they routed the West Coast entry, 7-1, on a hat trick performance by newcomer Gordon Labossiere.

The Seals managed to chalk up four victories and a tie in the other five away games. It's a different story on home ice, however. In the friendly confines of the Oakland Arena, the Seals have won 11, lost eight and tied two.

On the year, the Seals have a 15-32-3 record and 33 points.

Against the North Stars, only a third period goal by Gerry Ehman saved the Seals from being blanked. It came after the North Stars had scored their seven goals off Gary Smith.

Labossiere, playing only his third game since he was obtained from Los Angeles, scored a goal in every period to run his season total to 14. In addition, he had an assist.

Bill Goldsworthy tied a Minnesota record with a goal in his sixth straight game. Tommy Williams, Danny O'Shea and Dennis O'Brien also tallied for Minnesota.

Busy Week Ahead For The Warriors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors rest up today for a busy week of National Basketball Association action.

Starting Tuesday night when they host the Atlanta Hawks at the Cow Palace, the Warriors will play five games over the next six days while zig-zagging across part of the continent. The extra day will be used for travel.

After the Atlanta battle, San Francisco will make visits to Phoenix, Portland and Los Angeles with a home stop against Milwaukee sandwiched between Portland and Los Angeles.

A defensive 87-85 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Saturday night enabled the Warriors to gain ground in the Pacific Division. After the Lakers took care of Portland Sunday, it was Los Angeles ahead by 2½ games.

A significant note in the Warriors' win Saturday was that they checked the Lakers on 10 points in the first period. The output was the lowest ever in one period by the Lakers.

The victory, however, was tempered by the loss of Bob Portman for two to three weeks. The second year forward from Creighton suffered a broken shooting hand in Friday's encounter against Buffalo.

Casals And King To Meet In Virginia Slims Net Final

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Rosemary Casals of San Francisco upset former Wimbledon champion Ann Hayden Jones of England, 6-2, 6-1, Sunday night in the semifinals of the Virginia Slims Invitational Tennis Tournament.

The tiny Californian took early leads in both sets and depended on her piercing service and steady play as Mrs. Jones tried unsuccessfully to overpower her smaller, faster opponent.

Billie Jean King, top-seeded in the $12,500 tournament, stopped Francoise Durr of Paris, France, 6-2, 6-2, to move into Monday night's finals.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, scored a double victory Sunday in the first men's national amateur indoor tennis championships.

After ousting top-seeded Jeff Borowiak of UCLA in the singles championship, he returned to the court with partner Sandy Mayer to win top doubles honors over Borowiak and Alio Alvarez.

Golf

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Julius Boros made his first appearance as a senior golfer a successful one, taking the 72-hole PGA Mercury senior championship Sunday by three strokes over Tommy Bolt.

SPORTS SHORTS

Boros, of North Miami, tied early leader Bolt on the second hole of the final round on the 6,900-yard PGA national golf club course. The 50-year-old "freshman" senior moved into a three-stroke lead at the end of nine and then coasted in with a three-under-par 285.

Bolt, of St. Petersburg, showed the effects of a back strain that restricted his swing as he finished second at 288.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Funeral services for longtime Ohio State assistant football coach Lyal W. Clark will be held here Wednesday.

Clark, 66, one of the best known line coaches in the country, died late Saturday following a two-year illness.

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Righthander Dave Soutar, Gilroy, Calif., was $6,000 richer today as a result of his victory Saturday in the $50,000 Greater Los Angeles pro bowling tournament.

Soutar defeated Dick Ritger, Hartford, Wis., 235-210, in the championship round to take first prize. It was Soutar's 11th pro title in the last 10 years and his sixth in a year.

Archery

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Jack Lancaster of the Air Force captured the U.S. Indoor Archery pro championship Sunday by winning a shootoff from Bill Mills, Phoenix.

The snowmobile party, including Minnesota Vikings Football players Jim Marshall and Paul Dickson.

BLASTED WINNER — With an easy swing, George Archer overcomes the last hurdle en route to winning the San Diego Open, blasting out of a trap onto the 18th green to score a 16-under par 272.

Open winner, was at 282; 1970 Player of the Year Billy Casper was at 283; PGA champ Dave Stockton was at 284 and defending champ Pete Brown was at 286.

A total of 61 players from the surviving field of 75 finished with under par scores as they tore up Torrey Pines. The first three rounds were played in summer-like weather and the only "bad" day was Sunday when early morning fog held up play twice.

From here, the tour moves on to Honolulu for the Hawaiian Open, and leading the way will be Archer, once again healthy, and better still, a winner.

Doctor Is Track Star In Boston

BOSTON (UPI) —Dr. Delano Meriwether, a 27-year-old heart researcher who said he has "15 more important things to do ink this world than run" was the outstanding athlete of the Boston Athletic Association track meet.

Dr. Meriwether turned in a 5.3-second 50 yard dash Saturday night to equal the meet record and edge Capt. Mel Pender of West Point by a tenth of a second. The doctor, who wears gold swimming trunks, a hospital tunic and wide suspenders, was voted the outstanding athlete by sport writers.

Chuck LaBenz ignored boos from the crowd of 9,444 to win the mile in a disappointing 4:09.2.

Willie Davenport, a gold medalist in the 1968 Olympic Games continued his domination of the 45-meter high hurdles, winning in 5.6 seconds. It was his ninth consecutive victory in the BAA event.

Kerry Pearce of the University of Texas at El Paso, and co-holder of the world indoor two mile record, fought off Frank Shorter of the Florida Track Club to win the event in 8:43.2.

In the bar events, Ron Jourda was the only high jumper to clear the 7-foot mark. The Florida Track Club jumper missed three attempts at 7 foot, one inch, after Barry Shepard of the Pacific Coast Club bowed out at 6 feet, 10 inches.

Bruce Simpson, in the absence of John Pennel and Dick Railsback, won the pole vault handily with a jump of 6 feet, six inches.

Bill Toomey, 1968 Olympic decathlon champion and world record holder, will play a supporting role in an episode of television's "The FBI."

Arraigned On Bribery Charges

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Two Erie County legislators are scheduled to be arraigned today after they were indicted Friday by a federal grand jury investigating the county's domed stadium project.

Frank C. Ludera, Democratic minority leader, and fellow Democrat Frederick F. Pordum will be arraigned at 10 a.m. before Judge John O. Henderson. They are charged with conspiracy and interstate travel to promote bribery in connection with the $50 million project.

The indictment charged that Pordum and Ludera sought to solicit a total of $100,000 from project engineer J. Lloyd Walker in return for their votes supporting the stadium project.

Walker, who appeared before the federal panel Jan. 18 under immunity, was named as co-conspirator but not a co-defendant in the indictment.

Walker is scheduled to appear today before a county grand jury which is also probing the stadium project. Victor T. Fuzak, attorney for Dome Stadium Inc., the firm seeking to operate the facility, is also scheduled to go before the county panel.

The county grand jury is looking into charges of bribery, conspiracy, larceny and official misconduct in connection with the dome project.

Possible Changes In League

Under a plan devised by the State Athletic Committee, the College of Marin would have the good fortune of losing West Valley and De Anza junior colleges from the Camino Norte Athletic Conference.

The athletic committee, the sports policy making body of the California J.C. Association, has proposed realignment of five Northern California leagues, involving a total of seven schools. The changes, which would be effective next year, are subject to final action at the next SAC meeting May 17.

West Valley, of San Jose, and De Anza, of Cupertino, have practically dominated the Camino Norte Conference in all sports since the league was formed three years ago. The SAC has proposed that these schools move to the Golden Gate Conference, to be replaced by Napa College and Merritt College of Oakland.

Cadet Cagers Win Over College Prep

San Rafael Military Academy, behind the clutch shooting of Tom Kewell, held off a late rally by College Prep of Oakland Saturday for a 48-46 Bay Counties League basketball victory.

Kewell, a forward, poured in 24 points as the Cadets evened their league record at 4-4.

NBA ROUNDUP

Celtics Continue Drive For Playoffs

By U.P. International

The Boston Celtics, who wrote the National Basketball Association playoff record book with 11 championships in 13 years, are determined to avoid back-to-back shutouts in the post-season games.

Only once before, 1948-49 and 1949-50, were the Celts put down. Boston then fashioned a dynasty that may become as legendary as Babe Ruth's home run record as the Celtics swept to 11 titles. Last year they failed to nake the playoffs and the New York Knicks won the title.

Boston moved to within three games of Philadelphia in the vital second place playoff battle by defeating the 76ers, 132-126, Sunday night with the help of old Celtic pro John Havlicek's 31 points.

Dave Cowens' pair of foul shots tied the score at 124-all and after four more free throws by Jo Jo White, Cowens netted another pair from the charity stripe to kill Philadelphia's hopes of survival. Archie Clark of the 76ers scored a game high 32 points.

Milwaukee, reaching for the bonus money accorded to the team with the best winning percentage in the NBA, trounced Detroit, 131-104, for its 44th win in 53 games; Los Angeles dropped Portland, 133-120; New York rapped Baltimore, 125-95; Cleveland beat Buffalo for the fifth straight time, 117-108; Chicago romped over Cincinnati, 131-99, and Atlanta trounced San Diego, 131-120.

Lew Alcindor scored a game-high 28 points for Milwaukee, Jon McGlocklin added 24 and Bob Dandridge netted 23 in the Bucks' rout of Detroit, which featured Dave Bing's 26 points. Detroit coach Bill Van Breda Kolff, the most penalized NBA coach, was ejected in the fourth quarter.

Los Angeles won its fifth straight home game as Wilt Chamberlain meshed with 33 points and 27 rebounds against Portland. The Lakers increased their lead to 2 1-2 games over San Francisco in the Pacific Division as Happy Hairston came through with 26 points and Jerry West added 24. Leroy Ellis and Jim Barnett scored 24 apiece for the Trailblazers.

The Knicks, their five-game winning string interrupted by Philadelphia Saturday night, rebounded with a nicely balanced attack to beat Baltimore. Walt Frazier's 29 points and Dick Barnett's 22 did most of the damage. Earl Monroe's 25 points were high for the Bullets, who played without Gus Johnson and Eddie Miles.

Cleveland, winner in only 10 of 58 games, captured its fifth contest in the last nine starts with the help of Bobby Smith's 24 points and Walt Wesley's 20. Smith also had 15 rebounds and Wesley drew down 17. Emmett Bryant posted a high of 19 points for Buffalo.

Chicago, last in the Midwest Division despite having the fifth best won-lost record in the 17-team NBA, beat Cincinnati for the third time this season. Bob Love was the leading scorer with 25 points and Jim Fox tallied 22. Flynn Robinson, a substitute guard, netted 20 points for the losing Royals.

Elvin Hayes' 39 points couldn't match the more potent Atlanta attack as San Diego lost additional ground in its playoff bid. Walt Hazzard's 26 points and Jerry Chamber's paced the Hawks.

Quarry Draws Another Fine

OAKLAND (UPI) — Heavyweight boxing contender Jerry Quarry was fined $500 Friday by the California Athletic Commission for late payment of an earlier fine after he broke a contract for a fight in Los Angeles.

Commission officials said Quarry will be licensed to fight in California once he pays the $500 fine and completes an application.

The commission also granted a license to former world champion Sugar Ray Robinson for one exhibition that will be held to benefit his youth foundation in Southern California.

Helms Group Names Top 1970 Athletes

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The foremost athletes of 1970 were honored today with the announcement of the amateur performers selected for each continent as world trophy winners of the United Savings-Helms Athletic Foundation.

Those selected were boxer Philip Waruinge, Kenya, for Africa; high jumper Ni Chi-Chin of China for Asia; distance runner Kerry O'Brien of Australia for Australia; swimmer Gary Hall of the United States for North America; pole vaulter Chris Papanicolaou of Greece for Europe, and co-winners for South America.

The South Americans honored were Venezuelan boxer Francisco Antonio Brito-Rodriguez and Colombian swimmer Olga de Angulo, who tied in the balloting by members of the foundation's board.

Waruinge was honored as the British Commonwealth Games featherweight boxing champion in 1970. Ni Chih-Chin jumped seven feet, six inches, bettering the world record although China is not a member of the international federation which recognizes world marks.

O'Brien set a world record in the steeplechase and had the best three-mile mark of 1970. Papanicolaou was the first man to break the 18-foot pole vault mark, exceeding that barrier by a quarter of an inch.

Hall was hailed as the world's foremost swimmer in 1970. The Indiana University student set three world records and was the U.S. outdoor and indoor champion in three events.

Brito-Rodriguez won the Central American and Caribbean games flyweight championships. Miss de Angulo won eight gold medals in the Bolivian games setting numerous South American records.

Bobsled Victory For The Swiss

CERVINIA, Italy (UPI)—For the Swiss and West Germans their upset victory and third place in the world four-man bobsled championships was only a just end to what had been an all-Italian affair.

The Swiss No. 2 team, piloted by Rene Stadler and with Max Forster, Eric Schaerer and Peter Schaerer as crew, clocked a breakneck second heat time of 1:09.47 down the killer Blue Lake course to turn in an overall 2:19.35 and upset the highly favored Italian for the world title. Italy's No. 1 team placed second.

West Germany's No. 1 quartet of pilot Wolfgang Zimmerer, Stefan Gaisreiter, Walter Steinbauer and Peter Utzschneider managed to slip ahead of the second Italian sled for third place with a time of 2:19.63.

The Italians had dominated the two-man bobsled championships last weekend by finishing one-two and were highly favored to repeat in the four-man after posting the fastest daily times during the week of training.

The Swiss, Germans and Austrians complained unofficially that the Italians had a distinct advantage over the dangerous 5,069 foot (1540 meter) course, which took sleds around 14 curves over a drop of 459 feet (139 meters), since the Italian National championships had been held here weeks before.

They also complained Saturday when the international jury canceled the first day's two heats and ruled the world title would be awarded on the basis of Sunday's heat times. They claimed the Italians had influenced the decision after both Italy's teams suffered minor accidents.

Only 12 of the 15 starters finished Sunday's two heats as four separate accidents eliminated the French team on the second heat and forced the Austria No. 2 sled and the Swiss No. 1 Bob to withdraw after the first run.

All the accidents occurred as the sleds came off the third and final curve of the great labyrinth. Only the French team was trapped in its sled along the ensuing straightaway and they were slammed several times into the hard ice as the sled bounced on its side. There were no serious injuries.

The last American hope in the four-man championships was eliminated in Saturday's aborted runs when the U.S. No. 1 sled overturned on a pilot run. Danny Fay of Massena, N.Y., pilot Harry Peterson of Pottersville, N.Y., Bill Coulsen of Virginia Beach, Va., and brakeman Philip Dupree of Saranac Lake, N.Y., had minor injuries.

Oregon Cage Star Dies In Crash

LITCHFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Oregon State University basketball player Mike Keck, 21, has been killed in a one-car accident that injured a teammate in a remote section of northern California.

Fellow player Larry Webber, Sacramento, was hurt and taken to a Reno, Nev., hospital. His condition was reported as fair. A third occupant of the car, Duane Williams, 23, Oregon City, Ore., was taken to a medical facility in nearby Susanville with serious injuries.

Lassen County sheriff's deputies said the car skidded out of control Saturday at an icy spot on a straight stretch of California 395 about six miles north of here and "flipped over several times."

Keck, a sophomore, was a guard and offensive sparkplug for the Beavers. He was a star athlete at Klamath Falls, Ore.

His key baskets in the finals of the Far West Classic brought his team the title and a victory over rival Oregon. He scored 198 points this season for a 14.1 average.

OSU coach Ralph Miller called Keck's death "a terrible tragedy for all concerned. Mike is one of the finest young men we have had the privilege of knowing."

Flyers Trade Goalie For Scoring Power

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Flyers, sacrificing strength in the nets for more scoring power, have obtained a promising rookie leftwinger and a first round draft pick in exchange for goalie Bernie Parent.

The Flyers gave up Parent Sunday in a complicated three-way trade that got them Rick MacLeish, a Boston farmhand, and veteran goaltender Bruce Gamble of Toronto.

Keith Allen, general manager of the Flyers, indicated he was counting on MacLeish—who was fourth pick in the 1970 amateur draft—to boost Philadelphia's point total.

Parent, the Flyers' first line goalie, has been sharing the duties with Doug Favell. Parent played 30 games this season and Favell appeared in 27. Both men have performed well for the Flyers.

"We're attempting to build for the future," Allen said. "We had the luxury of two fine young goaltenders for four years, but we still had to struggle."

Philadelphia, holding on to third place in the National Hockey League's West Division, traded Parent and their second round draft pick to Toronto. In exchange, the Maple Leafs gave up Gamble, center Mike Walton and their first round draft pick in 1971.

Walton immediately went to Boston in exchange for MacLeish. The deal with Boston completed an earlier trade which brought leftwinger Danny Schock to the Flyers.

"The deal took a lot of soul searching by our entire organization," Allen said. "In order to make marked improvement we had to trade a goalie."

MacLeish, 20, was drafted by Boston after three years with Peterborough in the Ontario Hockey Association. He scored 15 goals this season with the Bruins' farm club in the Central Hockey League, the Oklahoma City Blazers. He recently had two three-goal hat tricks.

"MacLeish is an outstanding prospect," Allen said, "but in Boston he couldn't crack the lineup. He has the potential to be a great hockey player."

Parent allowed 73 goals and registered two shutouts this season. The Flyers' No. 1 draft pick in 1967, he broke a team record last season by playing in 62 games.

Gamble, a 32-year-old NHL veteran, went to Toronto four years ago after playing in Boston and New York. He played in 23 games this year, allowing 83 goals.

Billiards Winners

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former champions Ed Kelly, Joe Balsis, Frank McGown and Luther Lassiter each scored victories yesterday, the third day of the 24-day $40,000 World Three-in-One Pocket Billiards Championships here.

Vintage Year For Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — It was a vintage year for the Ohio State Buckeyes despite the Rose Bowl loss.

For the first time in four years a college team has produced first draft choices in the annual pick by pro teams.

On Thursday they were Ohio State's All-America fullback John Brockington, All-American defensive back Jack Tatum, defensive back Tim Anderson and halfback Leo Hayden.

In 1967 Michigan State had four on the first round —Bubba Smith, Gene Washington, Clint Jones and George Webster.

Brockington was taken by Green Bay, Tatum by Oakland Anderson went to San Francisco and Hayden was selected by Minnesota.

A's Sign First Draft Choice

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics have signed their first choice in the winter free agent draft—a second baseman from the University of Tennessee.

The A's said Phil Garner was signed Friday for a substantial but undisclosed bonus. He will play for the A's Burlington, Iowa, team in the Class A Midwest League.

Garner lead the Southeastern Conference last year with 38 RBI's and hit .356 for the Volunteers.

USC Is Confident Going Into Big One With UCLA

United Press International

The Southern California Trojans are confident and the Bruins of UCLA wary. That's the way the nation's first and second ranked teams will go into the "Big One" Saturday at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Several plus factors are responsible for the confidence of the Trojans. For one, they are unbeaten in 16 games and another, they hold two of the five victories recorded over the four-time national champion Bruins in the last four seasons.

"We are well aware and proud of our recent success against the Bruins and, where in the past we needed those wins to establish ourselves as a good team, this year that fact has already been established without playing them," said USC head man Bob Boyd after the Trojans had speared Big Ten powerhouse Illinois and Loyola of Chicago.

As for the game itself, Boyd said, "There is no way, except in head-to-head competition, for today's collegiate basketball teams to be accurately rated."

UCLA, ranked second after falling to Notre Dame a week earlier, brushed past Santa Barbara, 74-61, but John Wooden wasn't really enthused.

"We are not playing well as a team," he said. "We're missing the open man, we're not reacting on defense and we're just not playing well."

It could be that Wooden wants a little more motivation on the part of his team, but the fact remains that the 74-point output was the second lowest this season by UCLA.

USC, meanwhile, visited cavernous Chicago Stadium and had a surprisingly easy time of it. On Friday, the Trojans defeated Illinois, 81-68, and followed up Saturday with a 97-73 victory over Loyola of Chicago.

The USC-UCLA battle is one of four traditional rivalries this weekend for the Pacific-8 Conference. Oregon and Oregon State will engage in a home-and-home set—but on a non-conference level —as will California and Stanford. Washington and Washington State will mix it up just once.

Loss No. 15 For Sonoma

The Sonoma State College Cossacks shot a miserable 33 per cent from the floor Saturday night enroute to their 15th straight loss, 73-56 at the hands of the University of California, San Diego.

A hometown crowd of less than 200 sat in as the Tritons outscored the Cossacks, 34-23 in the first half and coasted the rest of the way. Larry Austin led the Rohnert Park team with 17 points, while Doug Wright paced San Diego with 24.

In Pac-8 play, the Cougars are 0-4. Cross-state rival Washington rolled to its sixth straight win, and third of the week, with an 86-78 nod over Gonzaga.

In the tightly bunched West Coast Athletic Conference, Loyola beat Pepperdine, 73-65, to stay a half game ahead of Pacific, which beat St. Mary's, 103-91. In a non-league encounter, Nevada-Reno bowed to Hardin-Simmons, 87-75.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Long Beach State kept its record unblemished with a 91-61 triumph over San Jose State, which has lost 15 straight.

Los Angeles State went out of conference and demolished Pan American of Texas, 112-82.

San Rafael Prep Wrestlers Third

Some 240 high school wrestlers from throughout the Bay Area competed Saturday in the San Rafael Invitational meet at San Rafael High.

The resident Bulldogs, behind wins by Ed Wasp and Dave Hughes, finished third with 92 points. San Lorenzo was first with 122, followed by Oceana with 113.

Terra Linda, which edged out San Rafael for the Marin County Athletic League championship, got wins from Brian Jordon and Mark Egide and came in fourth with 88 points. Redwood, another MCAL squad, finished eighth.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Stock Choices Under Keogh Act

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 40, self-employed and interested in setting-up a retirement plan under the Keogh Act. Which type of investment would be best, a mutual fund, common stocks or an annuity? — C.Z.

A. Regardless of which type of investment you choose, the plan must first qualify under provisions of the Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act. If you decide on common stock, you will have to locate a brokerage firm which offers the specially trusteed plans required.

I understand Keogh plans are possible now through an extension of the New York Stock Exchange's Monthly Investment Plan. Common stock investment presupposes some knowledge on your part of the stock market or access to professional advice. Although mutual funds would relieve an inexperienced investor of individual stock selection, many people are somewhat disillusioned by the sharp drop in value sustained by many funds in the recent bear market.

An annuity does not entail the capital risk inherent in stocks and mutual funds. However, it also lacks growth possibilties. Once you have embarked on a retirement program, you cannot change your mind and withdraw your accumulated funds.

However, you do have the option of "freezing" the existing plan and starting a new one. At your age I would favor a plan using common stocks with a long record of demonstrated and consistent growth or a conservative growth mutual fund.

Q. Since 1949 I have been purchasing and acquiring (through splits and rights) shares of Pacific Gas & Electric. My average cost per share is now $14.63; and I have 1178 shares. This represents 75 per cent of my assets so should I sell some of these and buy another stock with a higher yield? — G. F.

A. Because your original investment has appreciated substantially, you must take into consideration the capital gains tax. By selling 200 of your most costly shares, you can keep this tax at a minimum. Funds from the sale may be used to buy shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey yielding about 5.5 per cent.

Americans Reply To Thai Charges

BANGKOK (UPI) — American sources has disputed Thailand's charge that the United States is unfairly cutting into traditional Thai rice markets in Asia.

Although the U.S. Embassy here still declines to comment publicly on the charge, American sources denied the contention of Thai officials that sales of American rice to Indonesia and South Korea under the "Food For Peace" program constitute unfair competition.

They said the record will show that the real problem is that Indonesia simply cannot afford to import the rice it needs and Koreans prefer other types of rice over the varieties grown in Thailand.

$5.1 Billion Seen In Railroad Deals

NEW YORK (UPI) — The railroads and rail-transit market will provide a $5.1 billion business for their suppliers and contractors this year, according to Railway Age.

The trade publication said $1.4 billion alone will be spent for 65,000 new freight cars and 1,200 diesel-electric locomotives.

Nixon News Lifts Prices On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — Favorable reaction among investors to President Nixon's economic message sent stocks sharply higher in heavy trading Monday.

With less than an hour remaining, the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead nearly 8 points. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.50 at 96.38.

Of the 1,629 issues crossing the tape, 966 pointed higher, while 394 retreated. A four-hour volume of 15,020,000 shares compared with 15,880,000 shares traded Friday.

In his annual economic message to Congress, Nixon did not retreat from his earlier optimistic forecast of general economic improvement, predicting that "1971 will be a better year (than 1970), leading to a good year in 1972 and a new steadiness of expansion in years beyond."

However, the president set his sights on more modest mid-1972 targets of 4.5 per cent unemployment and a 3 per cent rate of inflation. A few months ago, top administration economists were predicting a jobless rate of 4 per cent — which they consider full employment — by mid-1972.

Among the day's most active issues were Telex Corp., Federal National Mortgage, Texaco, Sperry Rand, Transcontinental Investing, and Ford Motor. The automotive group traded narrowly. Chrysler and General Motors reported increased automobile production in January.

General Electric attracted good demand in its group, while steels, chemicals and oils showed scattered strength. Airlines, rails, and aircrafts moved over small ranges.

One analyst, commenting on the market's strength, said "traders are looking at everything optimistically, although fundamentals have not really changed yet."

Prices advanced in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Hertz, Boise Strike Deal

BOISE, Idaho (BW) — Boise Cascade Corp. has announced an agreement allowing the Hertz Corp. to use a fleet of Boise Cascade's Lifetime and Aristocrat motor homes valued at approximately $1 million for its entry into the recreational vehicle rental field.

The order involves more than 100 units initially and is one of the largest, if not the largest, ever placed by a single company with a motor home manufacturer.

Robert Smalley, Hertz' president, said the company plans to place the motor homes at several locations around the country near popular vacation areas and air transportation centers.

Sharpen Pencils For Low Income Allowance: It Takes Figuring

The new low income allowance takes some figuring.

The standard deduction is the greater of the percentage standard deduction or the low income allowance.

The percentage standard deduction will increase over the next three years. In 1970, it is 10 per cent, but not over $1,000. In 1971, it is 13 per cent, but not over $1,500. In 1972, it is 14 per cent, but not over $2,000, and for 1973 and thereafter, it is 15 per cent, but not over $2,000.

The low income allowance is a new concept and requires the definition of several new terms. It is the sum of the basic allowance and the additional allowance. The basic allowance is $200 plus the number of exemptions times $100, but not over $1,000. This is the same as the old minimum standard deduction. The additional allowance is the excess of $900 over the number of exemptions times $100, plus the income phase-out. The income phase-out is one-half of the amount by which the adjusted gross income exceeds $1,100 plus the number of exemptions times $625.

It is apparent that to figure the standard deduction you must make several computations.

Let's take an example and see how this is done. Assume a married couple filing a joint return with two dependents, or a total of four exemptions. They have adjusted gross income of $4,500. The first step is to compute the percentage standard deduction. In 1970, that is 10 per cent of adjusted gross income, but not over $1,000. In this case, the adjusted gross income is $4,500, so 10 per cent is $450. We then have to compute the low income allowance and compare that to the percentage deduction of $450 to see which is greater.

The first step in computing the low income allowance is to determin e the basic allowance.

The basic allowance is $200 plus the number of exemptions times $100. In this case, $200 plus $400, that is four exemptions, equals a $600 basic allowance.

The next step is to determine the additional allowance. The additional allowance is the excess of $900 over the number of exemptions times $100, plus the income phase-out.

At this point, we can skip to the income phase out. That is one-half of the amount by which the adjusted gross income exceeds $1,100 plus $625 times the number of exemptions. $625 times four exemptions equals $2,500. $2,500 plus the $1,100 equals $3,600. Deduct the $3,600 from the adjusted gross income of $4,500 and we arrive at $900. One-half of the $900 is $450. We add this $450 to the $400 arrived at by multiplying $100 times the number of exemptions and we have $850. The additional allowance then is the $900 minus the $850 or a $50 additional allowance.

We previously determined that our basic allowance was $600. We add to the basic allowance the additional allowance of $50 and get a low income allowance of $650. Since the low income allowance of $650 exceeds the percentage deduction of $450, the standard deduction is $650.

The easy way to do this is to use the tax tables. There are fifteen tables for computing your taxes, using the standard deduction and the low income allowance. Then after that, there is the surtax table that you may have to use.

In computing the low income allowance, married taxpayers filing separate returns have special rules. They generally follow the basic old rules in that they can get only about half the benefits allowed to married taxpayers filing joint returns.

One other comment should be made in regard to this. A new provision was put into the Code affecting certain married individuals living apart. In certain cases, they will be treated as being single for the purpose of computing the low income allowance and some other provisions from the Code.

Basically, what this provides is that if a spouse who is married maintains a household for himself and for more than one-half of the year it was the place of abode of a dependent son, step-son, daughter or step-daughter and that individual is entitled to a deduction for that dependent and such individual furnishes over half of the cost of maintaining such a household during the taxable year, and during the entire taxable year, the individual's spouse is not a member of the household, then such individual will be considered as single for purposes of applying certain of these provisions.

If this applies to you, then you should purchase the book, "Your Federal Income Tax 1971 Edition" from the IRS for 75 cents and read up on this.

McGillicuddy Construction Co. Merger: Gen Ex Development

The Novato construction firm that built the Holiday Inn and Holiday Plaza Office Building at Terra Linda is now part of the organization that developed them.

E. D. McGillicuddy Construction Co. has been merged into Gen Ex Development Corp. of San Francisco, headed by R. Leonard Garrison as president. Besides being responsible for the knollsite complex at Terra Linda, Gen Ex Development is a large developer and builder of condominiums at Lake Tahoe's North Shore. Through the acquisition of Eugene McGillicuddy's operation, Gen Ex Development will now involve itself in direct construction as well as the overall development and financing of real estate. It is a good move for McGillicuddy, who now becomes senior vice president of Gen Ex Development and head of all its construction activities. He will continue to maintain his present office in Novato but may range far and wide.

Working with the firm as consultant is Desmond MacTavish of San Rafael, who has been many years in California real estate projects and who figured with Garrison in the Holiday Inn venture.

Gen Ex is now in the process of picking up other Marin real properties for the devleopment of townhouses, apartments and possibly shopping centers.

Oil Industry Sees Hope In Government Approach

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A meeting of minds — government and industry — has given the American Oil Industry something to look forward to in the 1970s.

Despite some recent tax allowance setbacks, the industry feels government is finally listening to its plight and becoming a little more receptive to doing something about it.

Nevertheless government will play a large part in the future of the oil and gas industry and mere awareness isn't going to get the job done, oil men feel.

"One of the greatest sources of encouragement for the nation's oil and gas producers has been a new and more positive approach by the administration to problems confronting domestic producers," Robert E. Mead of Dallas, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) said.

Discovery of oil and gas will be of prime concern to the industry, and the nation, in the next 10 years. Supplies are dwindling.

"As the fuel season began this fall," Mead said, "the federal government refused to panic when a fuel shortage threatened cities in the north and east. White House officials stood firm against demands that there be fuel rationing, federal price control on residual fuel oil, and abandonment of all restrictions on imports of foreign crude oil and petroleum products."

The industry got one major roadblock out of the way in 1970. It was a threatened scheme to cut costs of domestic crude oil and allow more foreign imports.

"A major breakthrough came in industry-government relations when the administration rejected a punitive, price-cutting scheme aimed at rolling back the price of domestic crude and permitting ever-increasing quantities of foreign crude to enter the U.S.," Mead said.

Price controls the government holds over the natural gas industry are another concern in the coming years but to a lesser degree than in the past.

Government is finally focusing on incentives to let producers discover and develop additional reserves, now desperately needed in major consumer areas. A bill has been submitted to Congress to free natural gas producers from a large measure of federal price controls.

Eastern Airline Reports Profit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastern Airlines, reversing a trend in a generally depressed industry, recorded a net profit of almost $5.5 million last year, the company announced.

The company said the gain was achieved through a 12 per cent boost in operating revenues and and its carriage to hold down costs. In 1969 the company had a $2.3 million loss. The per share gain for 1970 was 39 cents, with operating revenues totaling $971 million. Revenues in the preceding year were $869.5 million.

Helping the company achieve gains were two fare boosts approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board and the inauguration of service to Jamaica and Omaha, the announcement said.

Financing Program

ST. PAUL (UPI) — Directors of Burlington Northern, Inc. approved in principle a financing program involving issuance of not more than $60 million of consolidated mortgage bonds. The program is subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission.
